UNIONS VETO WORK HALT

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia labor union leaders Monday rejected a proposal that a four-hour work stoppage be held Friday to protest Insurance Corporation of B.C. rate increases.

Jack Munro, western president of the International Woodworkers of America — B.C.'s largest union with 38,000 members, said the union did not support the proposal but would encourage people to participate in a rally scheduled Friday in Victoria.

Alderman Harry Rankin of Vancouver called Sunday for the work stoppage in support of Friday's rally, sponsored by the B.C. Federation of Labor and the Concerned Citizen's Association of B.C.

Munro said the union supports demonstrations against Autoplan 1976 increases doubling the insurance premiums for most B.C. drivers.

He said: "The working people are getting it in the neck and I think the government had better pay attention to what's going on."

Labor Minister Allan Williams said in Victoria it would be "very costly" if British Columbians stage a four-hour work stoppage.

Williams said the stoppage would have serious consequences and would force some people to make decisions "they would rather not have to make."

Meanwhile, other labor leaders joined Munro in rejecting the work stoppage plan.

"It never ceases to amaze me how people like Harry Rankin can fight to the last drop of someone else's blood," said Senator Ed Lawson, the Teamsters Union's Canadian representative.

"It's a stupid idea. If 200,000 workers in B.C. walked off for half a day, that would mean $5 million in wages poured down the drain."

'SHOCKING', SAYS BENNETT

B.C. Jobless Up Again

Times News Services

Unemployment in B.C. rose in January to 93,000, up 5,000 from December and an increase of 7,000 from January last year on a seasonally adjusted basis. Actual figures were not available.

Seasonally adjusted B.C. jobless rate was 8.5% of the labor force compared with 7.9% in December.

A Statistics Canada report issued in Ottawa today showed 800,000 persons actually unemployed across Canada last month. This was an increase of 107,000 from December and 41,000 from January, 1975.

Reacting to the B.C. figures, Premier Bill Bennett said today the situation was "shocking."

B.C. has had a "difficult unemployment statistic" in the last year and a half, he said, adding that the Socreds fought the election campaign on that issue.

The department of economic development is working on projects which it is hoped will provide new employment in B.C. and the government generally hopes to encourage employment, said Bennett.

The figures will probably improve in the summer, he said, but in the long term he hopes the figures will decrease in the next two years.

Statistics Canada figures show that the national unemployment picture improved in terms of the seasonally-adjusted rate — the measure most commonly used by economists to chart economic performance.

Direct comparison with previous years is difficult, however, because today's figures were the first released under the agency's new jobless survey. The new figures are not directly comparable to figures issued under the former survey.

The new survey tends to reduce the over-all unemployment totals, including unemployment among men only. But the jobless total for women is increased under the new survey which includes minor changes in the definition of unemployment and a more comprehensive series of questions.

For example, the January jobless total of 800,000 compares under the new survey with a January, 1975, total of 759,000. However under the old survey the January, 1975, total was reported at 815,000.

On a seasonally-adjusted basis, the jobless rate rose in six provinces, but dropped in Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland.

The British Columbia rate was 8.5 per cent in January, up from 7.9 per cent. Saskatchewan rose to 4.3 per cent from 3.8, Manitoba climbed to 5.1 per cent from 4.9 and Nova Scotia rose to 7.9 per cent from 7.7 per cent.

The rate in Ontario dropped to 5.6 per cent in January from 6.5 per cent in December; the Quebec rate dropped to 7.9 per cent from 8.5 per cent.

The Newfoundland rate dropped by 2.3 percentage points, but that province retained the country's highest rate at 11.6 per cent in January.

Alberta retained the lowest rate at 4.1 per cent, up from 3.4 per cent.

YOUNG HARD HIT

OTTAWA (CP) — Of the overall jump of 107,000 in the Canadian unemployment total in January, almost half were aged 15 to 24. The January total in this category was 369,000, up by 50,000 from December.

For men aged 25 and older, the jobless total jumped by 38,000 to 254,000 in January. For women of the same age, the total increased by 21,000 to 178,000. The totals by age and sex do not add precisely because of rounding.

On a seasonally-adjusted basis, the jobless rate for young men aged 15 to 25 rose nine-tenths of one percentage point to 13.4 per cent, but the rate for young women dropped to 10.5 per cent from 12.4 per cent.

For those aged 25 and older, the seasonally-adjusted rate for both men and women dropped from the December level. The men's rate was 3.9 per cent, down from 4.1, while the women's rate was 5.7 per cent, down from 6.7 per cent.

Air Bribe Shock Waves

Times News Services

Shock waves continued to spread around the world today in the wake of further revelations of huge bribes by aircraft manufacturers.

The Dutch government named a three-man independent commission to investigate charges that Prince Bernhard received $1.1 million from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. for help in selling its warplanes.

At the same time, the Dutch representative of the French Dassault Aircraft Corp. went on trial in Amsterdam on charges of trying to bribe members of the Dutch parliament to promote the purchase of French planes.

Lockheed faced similar problems in Japan where a furore over alleged secret payoffs to government officials continued.

About the only good news Lockheed got came from Ottawa, where Treasury Board President Jean Chretien denied there had been any improper conduct in dealings with the company. Defence Minister James Richardson agreed.

But a report today from Tehran says another U.S. aircraft manufacturer, Grumman International Inc., has agreed to pay Iran $28 million that the Iranian government claims Grumman paid improperly to agents on a $2.2 billion contract.

Iran's vice-minister for war, Gen. Hassan Toufanian, said Grumman agreed in writing to the $28 million payment against Iran's order for 80 sophisticated F-14 Tomcat fighter planes. The money is part of $75 million that Iran lent Grumman to bail the company out of financial problems.

Grumman was to pay the $28 million to middlemen as commission to get the very order for airplanes that Iran wanted in the first place. Iran helped Grumman out of its financial problems so the planes it wanted would be manufactured.

In The Netherlands, the national newspaper De Volkskrant quoted parliamentary circles Monday as saying a ruling against Bernhard, consort of Queen Juliana, "could entail the abdication" of the monarch. The three-man team of investigators is expected to take about six weeks to report findings.

The charges against Botterman resulted from the fierce competition last summer between Dassault and the the General Dynamics Corp. of the United States for what was dubbed "the arms deal of the century." In the end, Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Norway chose the American F16 supersonic jet for their air forces over the French Mirage F1 fighter in a deal worth more than $2 billion.

In Tokyo, the Lockheed scandal took a new twist after a top defence official withdrew a statement naming former premier Kakuei Tanaka.

Vice-Defence Minister Takuya Kuba told a news conference Monday night: "My earlier statement was inappropriate as my imagination was incorporated in it."

MISSING CANNON emerged on University of Victoria campus today after UVic students stole it as a prank from Royal Roads Military College over the weekend. Although several contingents from the college scoured the campus for their missing 700-pound cannon they couldn't find it and Monday night in frustration a line of 25 cadet cars toured the ring honking horns. The cannon was placed in front of the Coronet building early today with the note: "Compliments of Ross' Co.'s Raiders". Two college representatives came to claim it back, but they had to abandon their prize briefly to round up more muscle—the cannon was too heavy to lift. (Bill Halkett photo)

$1 Million Pipeline To Water Peninsula

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

The Greater Victoria water board today agreed to build a $1 million pipeline extension carrying water to the southern border of Central Saanich, as a mark of "good faith" toward solving the water problems of the Saanich Peninsula.

But the condition stipulated is that the Peninsula municipalities — Central and North Saanich, and Sidney — unite as one water improvement district and arrange to purchase the water in bulk at the boundary.

Saanich Ald Sandy Noel, who framed the motion, said he feels the provincial government may "thrust" solutions on both the water district and the peninsula in the near future, and this was an opportunity for the board to take the iniative.

The pipeline extension would be from the reservoir to be constructed at Haliburton Road near Beaver Lake for about two miles north to the Central Saanich border.

Noel said whatever arrangements are made by the northern municipalities to purchase the water the wholesale rate charged will be higher than the rate which the water district charges to its member municipalities. The rates would amortize the capital expenditure involved.

The $1 million cost of the pipeline extension from Haliburton Road would be a heavy initial shock if Central Saanich North Saanich and Sidney had to pay the total cost, he said.

Victoria Mayor Mike Young, who was elected chairman of the water board for 1976, said the question of further financing formulas could be dealt with at a later stage.

In other business, the board approved a $1.9 million operating budget for 1976. After deducting an expected revenueof $758,000 the total amount to be raised by municipalities will be $1.1 million.

Water commissioner Ron Upward said this will necessitate no increase in the present wholesale rate of 18 cents per 1,000 gallons which the district charges Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay.

STOLEN CITY GUNS FOUND IN VANCOUVER

Although 68 weapons taken have been recovered, no arrests have been made by RCMP and Vancouver City police.

Meanwhile seven handguns from a private collection in the city were stolen yesterday. Police are continuing their investigation into theft of the weapons, valued at $800, from 350 Berwick St.

Robinson's manager Doug Robinson is in Montreal and was unavailable for comment.

Keep Solitary Report Urges

OTTAWA (CP) — A study group has recommended continued use of solitary confinement for inmates of federal penitentiaries, but not without certain reforms.

The recommendations are contained in a report to Solicitor-General Warren Allmand by a three-member board under Ottawa sociologist James Vantour, which studied practices at 13 prisons across the country.

The report, released Monday, comes after a December ruling of the Federal Court of Canada that use of solitary confinement cells at the British Columbia Penitentiary constitutes cruel and unusual punishment.

Allmand has said changes in the policy toward solitary confinement will be based on the Vantour report.

The report says inmmates are kept separate from the general prison population: to maintain order and discipline; to protect some inmates, such as sexual offenders, from fellow prisoners; and to punish inmates who break prison rules.

The report recommends that separate confinement be maintained for prisoners in all three categories, but with substantial changes.

The report says 139 inmates or 4.6 per cent of the prison population were separated because of the need to retain good order and discipline.

Although the cells are similar to others in the prison and meals are the same, there are no programs for these inmates and boredom and depression are common. The report says solitary prisoners should be allowed access to institution facilities when not in regular use.

The report recommends establishment of a four-member segregation review board in each prison that would review the case of an inmate within five days of the decision to confine him and once every two weeks after that, the report says.

The report also noted that a total of 368 inmates were in protective custody in July, 1975 or 4.25 per cent of the prison population and recommends these prisoners be allowed to associate with one another, just as any other groups in the penitentiary.

It agrees solitary confinement is the only solution in certain discipline cases, but adds that it should only be used where other measures have failed or are impractical.

Amin Recognizes MPLA As Red Sweep Continues

Times News Services

Uganda today recognized the government set up by the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

Diplomatic sources said the announcement by Ugandan President Idi Amin was the most significant political victory the MPLA has achived in its fight for recognition as Angola's legitimate leader.

Angola could now seek membership in the Organization of African Unity under MPLA leadership, Amin said in his statement.

On the warfront, a powerful Soviet-backed army reportedly captured two strategic Atlantic ports in Southern Angola today and outgunned pro-Western troops braced for a stand at their already threatened military headquarters.

Pro-Western forces said they had been promised aid from Europe and Africa to continue the fight against the Soviet-backed forces that scored their greatest triumph of the war Monday.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Belgrade that the Soviet-backed MPLA had captured the ports of Lobito and Benguela, two of the pro-Western forces' last major southern strongholds.

The fall of the pro-western southern capital of Huambo on Monday was the worst setback of the Angolan civil war, but Jorge Sangumba of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola said, "it is neither a surprise nor a deadly wound."

SPEECH MONDAY

Premier Bennett's "state of the province" address is expected to be telecast on television and radio stations throughout B.C. next Monday evening.

According to a tentative schedule, the premier will tape a 15-minute speech earlier Monday afternoon for broadcast on television and radio at 6:30 p.m.

Bennett has been promising a "state of the province" speech since he took office Dec. 22 and has said the focus will be on B.C.'s financial picture.

The government's financial review, being prepared by accountants with Clarkson, Gordon of Vancouver, will be the basis of the report.

Bennett said the financial review is not completed but he expects to have it soon.

Guatemala Gougers Jailed

GUATEMALA CITY — A number of shopkeepers have been jailed for price gouging in the aftermath of Guatemala's earthquake and "there have even been people selling water from public wells," the nation's president Kjell Laugerud said today.

"There are always those base people who take advantage of a situation like this to enrich themselves at the expense of less fortuante persons," he added. "There have even been some persons selling water taken from public wells."

Col. Guillermo Echeveria of the national relief committee, said 100 armed troops were sent into four villages Monday to control food distribution.

Another strong earthquake, meanwhile, was reported Monday afternoon in the Pacific Ocean off Mexico. It was not felt in the closest towns on the Mexican coast although it gave Richter Scale readings of 5.5 to 6.2.

Torture a Way of Life in Chile

GENEVA (UPI) — A special UN committee charged today that Chile has institutionalized torture in its governmental policies, using tactics of torture and sadism that "stagger the imagination."

The charges, appearing in a 67-page report, were based on a year of investigation by a five-member special committee chaired by Ghulam Ali Allana of Pakistan. The report was given to the UN commission on human rights.

"Torture is indeed institutionalized and has become a part of the present government," the report said.

The group said it is prepared to visit Chile for an on-the-spot investigation. Chilean authorities, so far, have refused to allow the committee to enter the country.

"The methods used continue to be characterized by extreme ruthlessness," the report said. "They extend from cold, methodical application of torture as a means of extracting information or of punishing and destroying political opponents to frequent manifestations of barbaric sadism by individual operators.

"In this connection, statements made before the group stagger the imagination."

The report listed in detail such methods of torture as the use of an electrified bed, beatings, dogs, applying shocks to open wounds, hanging people upside down for hours, cutting the body with a razor and burial in sand with only the head free and exposed to the sun.

The group said it has voluminous evidence that Chilean secret service agencies employ "a number of well-trained, professional torturers."

"Among these torturers, the group has been especially informed of the activities of an individual named Oswaldo Romo. A request has been made that he should be brought to trial for crimes against humanity," the report said.

The regime, it said, uses these methods in order to stay in power.

Various persons also continue to "disappear," it said, and Chile owes the international community an answer as to whether these persons are alive or dead.

The report said many Chilean citizens "are unaware of what is going on in their country. Others prefer to remain silent."

Construction in Slump, Worse to Come—Farmer

The Victoria construction industry is in a bit of a slump and there is far worse to come, says Wayne Farmer, general manager of Farmer Construction.

He said it will take a year before the full effect of the provincial government's curtailment program is felt by the construction industry.

"It looks like the industry will be really slow at this time next year."

Farmer was commenting on a survey by Canada Manpower showing that construction was one of the weak spots in the local economy during January. For the first time in more than a year there is unemployment in the construction trades in this area.

"It is a bit weak at the moment but it should pick up over the summer months when it will be pretty good. Then it will get really bad when we feel the effects of the provincial government curtailment in construction next year," Farmer said.

The summer work will involve three projects that have been in the planning for many months.

They are:

—A $5 million mail processing plant at Royal Oak for the federal government. Construction will employ a total of 120 in all trades.

—An $18 million office building on Broughton for the provincial government with employment for a total of 100.

—A $7 million university administration centre at University of Victoria has gone to tender, although bids have not yet been opened. It would employ a peak of 100 construction workers.

Farmer said he is optimistic that all three projects will proceed and this would employ an additional 320 construction workers over the summer months.

The projects are part of an on-going program by governments and the university and were approved before governments began cutting back on their spending.

Very little in the way of new construction projects is expected for 1976, especially from the provincial government, Farmer said.

Expectations that construction will enjoy a fairly good summer assume there will be no work stoppage in the construction industry.

Two-year contracts for 32,000 union workers in the building trades expire April 30.

"Negotiations have been very slow to get started this year," Farmer said.

Police Chief Links Arcade to Break-Ins

Esquimalt Police Chief Art Burton said today he believes there is a definite connection between the opening of a penny arcade in Esquimalt last fall and the soaring number of break-ins in the municipality.

Burton said that there had been a monthly average of four break-ins a month — but now there are 38 and the picture worsens every month.

"We're getting reports of two or three break-ins every day," Burton said. Only money is being taken.

Burton attributes most of the thefts to young people hooked on playing the pinball machines, raiding homes for quarters.

"It's become a disease with the kids," he said. "They can't seem to help themselves."

Burton said an arcade owner who lives in Esquimalt had his home broken into recently. A bag of coins was taken. Some of the coins were found later in pinball machines in a downtown bowling alley.

The Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police have approached the federal minister of justice to try to get tougher controls, claiming that in order to feed the machines, petty crime is becoming rampant.

But, said Burton, the minister has apparently turned a deaf ear to their complaints.

Burton said he has tried to find controls in provincial legislation but has not been successful.

Meanwhile, Esquimalt council has asked the municipal solicitor to review a proposal to raise the licence fee for arcade owners from its present fee of $5 every six months to $100 a year.

"I'd like to see them (the fees) pushed so high there would be no machines here," Ald. Ken Hill said in council Monday.

Wilson to Halt Mercenaries

National Union sources in Lusaka said the Popular Movement was driving south in a pincer against the western-backed forces' last major strongholds in the south, including Silva Porto, about 100 miles east of Huambo, and Luso, 270 miles east of the capital.

Meanwhile, shaven-headed British mercenaries, some on crutches or in weelchairs, came home to London from the Angolan war today and differed on reports that 14 of their comrades had been executed for refusing to fight.

Scotland Yard special branch plainclothesmen quickly took the approximately 50 men aside for questioning about whether Britons had murdered or been murdered in Angola.

Reflecting the government's crackdown on British mercenaries fighting in Angola, three of the men were arrested — two for offences allegedly committed before they left, the third for illegal possession of firearms.

On the political front, Prime Minister Harold Walson today named a three-man commission to study ways of halting mercenary recruitment in England.

The British government, Wilson said in naming the tribunal, is "disturbed by the evident facility with which a small group of people furnished by an unknown source were able to recruit misguided people to participate in this bloody business."

In a related development "Col. Callan," the mercenary alleged to have ordered the slaying of the 14, has been identified as Costas Georgiou, a 24-year-old Greek-Cypriot who served time for armed robbery while in the British Army.

Georgiou was brought to Britain when he was five years old, while his native Cyprus was still British territory, and took British nationality. The defence ministry said he joined a parachute regiment in 1969, at the age of 18.

In February 1972, while serving in Northern Ireland, the 21-year-old soldier was sentenced to five years in prison for robbing a post office of the equivalent of $230 with another man. The money was recovered. Georgiou was also dishonorably discharged from the army.

A psychiatrist who testified at his court martial described him as a "wild dog on a leash."

He was sent to England to serve his sentence, earned time off for good behavior and after his release worked as a builder in North London.

He went to northern Angola just after Christmas to fight for the National Front for the Liberation of Angola FNLA because he was anti-Communist, his girl-friend, a 24-year-old secretary named Rona Angelo, told reporters Monday.

BANK BLAST KILLS BOMBER

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Police said a man who threatened to blow up a downtown bank Monday unless police gave him $1 million was killed when a bomb exploded in the bank.

A police spokesman said the man, who has not been identified, took a bomb into a branch of the Bank Canadian National and ordered the manager to telephone police headquarters and demand $1 million.

Police were dispatched to the bank after the call was received at about 1:40 p.m., the spokesman said, and were waiting outside the building when the explosion occurred.

The bomb exploded about 15 minutes after the manager telephoned police, the spokesman said.

He said the bank employees were sent to the basement of the building before the explosion and were sheltered from the blast. No one was injured.

Hospital Situation 'Appalling'

Victoria's two general hospitals are severely handicapped by overcrowding and poor facilities, provincial Conservative leader Scott Wallace said Monday night.

Speaking to about 70 party members at the annual meeting of the Victoria provincial Conservative Association, he said there must be a grassroots cry of protest.

"We must all stand up and shout in indignation at the appalling situation in the hospital services of this city."

But Wallace added that he is not sure that a seemingly "heartless" new Social Credit government is prepared to correct the situation.

CLICK . . . THAT'S IT

MONTREAL (CP) — The use of electronic cameras led to the arrest of 67 per cent of the 75 robbers who last year held up branches of a chain of photographic stores, says the firm's president.

Adrien Castegnier of Direct Film says the means of protection may cost more than the amounts the firm loses through hold-ups, but it assures protection for its employees. There were 4,758 armed hold-ups in the Montreal area in 1975.

the weather

Periods of rain or snow were the order of the night for most of B.C. — the notable exception being the typically dry southeastern portion. Little change is expected for today and Wednesday as a parade of disturbances passes across the Pacific to the coast and thence southeastward to the states. Warm air dragged along by these disturbances will maintain mild temperatures throughout the province.

Patty Tells of Terror and SLA Rape in Dark Closet

Times News Services

SAN FRANCISCO — In quiet, emotionless voice, Patricia Hearst Monday finally told her story of life underground with the Symbionese Liberation Army — a life of fear, sexual assault and physical abuse.

The 21-year-old newspaper heiress admitted she helped rob a bank, fired a machine gun at a Los Angeles sporting goods store, helped kidnap a high school student and trekked back and forth across the country with radicals without trying to escape.

She said however, she was locked in dark closets for several weeks after her kidnapping, raped in one of them by William Wolfe and other SLA members, hauled from one hideout to another in a garbage can carried in a car trunk, and punched in the eye four times by William Harris.

Fear that either the SLA or FBI would kill her — especially after she watched six of her kidnappers slain in a battle with Los Angeles police on television — kept her from taking advantage of repeated chances to escape, Miss Hearst said.

Testifying with the jury absent, she said she took part in the bank robbery only out of fear of death and said she never surrendered because remaining SLA members threatened to stalk her for the rest of her life if she did.

With a voice that was barely audible at times, the newspaper heiress said flight was futile as two surviving SLA members continued to carry on the legacy of those who died — to imprison her forever in a mental dungeon.

"Where could I go?" she asked several times, saying the SLA convinced her that she had been abandoned by her family and that the FBI wanted her dead.

Miss Hearst renounced all her taped communiques from the SLA as products of coercion, disclaimed her celebrated love for slain SLA member Willie Wolfe as a farce and said she was forced to help rob a bank and later tell a teenager that she acted freely.

Under questioning from chief defence lawyer F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst said SLA members William and Emily Harris, now awaiting trial in Los Angeles, kept up the barrage of intimidation after six SLA members were killed in a fiery shootout with Los Angeles police on May 17, 1974.

She admitted under cross examination by U.S. Attorney James Browning that she sprayed a sporting goods store with gunfire a day earlier to allow the Harrises to flee a bungled shoplifting attempt.

She called it a reflex action from repeated SLA indoctrination on how she should act in a given situation.

Asked by Browning whether she had felt good about aiding the Harrises with her gunfire, she replied: "It did not give me any feeling, it happened so quick, I did it without even thinking."

In her four hours on the stand Monday, Miss Hearst implicated nearly a dozen persons in her underground odyssey, some dead, most still alive.

She said the April 24, 1974, taped communique in which she boasted of her role in the bank robbery was written by SLA member Angela Atwood.

"Did you, in fact, act voluntarily?" asked Bailey.

"No," she replied.

"Had you, on prior occasions, been told by any of the members of that group what would happen to you if you did not cooperate with their wishes?" her lawyer asked.

"Yes," she answered. "I was told that I would be killed."

Miss Hearst startled the courtroom twice, perhaps most dramatically with her statement that she had been sexually assaulted by Wolfe when she was kept blindfolded in a closet for several weeks after her Feb. 4, 1974, kidnapping.

She said her June 7, 1974, taped eulogy of Wolfe and the other SLA members who died in the fire was written by the Harrises.

In the tape, she proclaimed her love for Wolfe, calling him the "the gentlest, most beautiful man I've ever known."

Choking back tears, Miss Hearst said Wolfe accosted her in the closet a month after her kidnapping and wasn't the only SLA member to abuse her sexually. Bailey did not pursue the matter further.

A second part of Miss Hearst's testimony that caused a rustling in the courtroom was her qualifed admission that SLA chieftain Donald, Cinque DeFreeze had offered her a choice of remaining with the tiny ragtag band of revolutionaries or returning home.

Under questioning by Browning, Miss Hearst said DeFreeze once came into the SLA's hideout and "said I could go home or stay with them; I didn't believe him."

Langford Pair Thwart U.S. Takeover Bid

Partners in a two-year-old Langford garbage business have taken over Greater Victoria's largest independent disposal company in the face of similar attempts by a Texas-based corporation.

Effective at the beginning of Feburary, the assets and operations of Cypress Disposal Ltd. were acquired by two men who were well-known in Pacific Northwest car racing, Rick O'Dell and Bob Nasadyk, to be operated as Cypress Disposal (1975) Ltd.

Efforts by BFI Waste Systems Ltd. to buy out Cypress owners Andy and Emilia Gazsity were blocked by the Foreign Investment Review Commission. BFI is a Canadian subsidiary of Browning Ferris Industries of Houston, and is well established in Calgary.

O'Dell and Nasadyk said the acquisition of Cypress, which includes the operating name of Evergreen Disposal, would be carried on independently of their domestic garbage business under the name Nasell Disposal Ltd.

Cypress remains certified to Service Employees' International Union, while Nasell is not organized.

The local purchase of Gazsity's firm leaves the commercial privately-owned garbage business approximately evenly divided between Cypress and BFI. Several other small operators are mostly in the residential collection end of the business in the capital region.

BFI has been conducting a campaign in Canada to acquire a large share of the commercial garbage disposal business by concentrating efforts on a local basis through competitive rates.

O'Dell and Nasadyk said they intend to maintain a level of service with which BFI will find it hard to compete, which will include a general sprucing up of the fleet and the steel containers they handle.

The partners expanded their domestic pickup business in the Langford-Colwood-Metchosin area from one to six trucks. Cypress has a fleet of nine vehicles.

Nasadyk said there is enough commercial waste business in Victoria for two major disposal companies — "if it has to be that way," O'Dell added.

CZECH AGENT KILLED?

WASHINGTON (CP) — A former Czech intelligence agent says a Czech counter-intelligence agent was probably murdered in St. Catharines, Ont., six years ago.

The man who died was identified in a Senate subcommittee report Monday only as Mrnak.

In St. Catharines, records of St. Julia's Roman Catholic Church show that Zdenek Mrnak died May 16, 1971, and was cremated following a church service.

Mrnak's widow, Helen, said she was suspicious about the circumstances of her husband's death but declined further comment.

The mystery developed after a subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee disclosed testimony by a defector, testifying under the name of Josef Frolik, who also claimed that Czech prostitutes were used to help defeat a Canadian hockey team in a world match in 1959.

Frolik's testimony, taken in secrecy Nov. 18, 1975, said the Czech secret police, working with the Soviet Union's KGB, turned "hookers" loose on the Canadian players and also, in another case, pried open the Canadian ambassador's safe in Prague.

Floyd Crawford, captain of the 1959 team, said in Belleville Monday that the accusation was "good for the ego" but there was no truth in it.

"I can vouch for all the players and the whole Canadian contingent that we were bored to death over there," he said.

Sources in the Senate and the state department declined comment on the testimony.

The great majority of employers in B.C. are required by law to register with the Workers' Compensation Board.

Most employers in British Columbia must register: apartment owners, construction, hotels, lumbering, manufacturing, mining, retail stores, restaurants, transportation, wholesale establishments and others. Also included are out-of-province employers with operations in B.C. and individuals or businesses that contract out part of their operations to subcontractors.

Failure to register as required is an offence under the Act and can have these serious consequences for you, the employer:
• you will still be responsible for assessments you ought to have paid.
• you are subject to a penalty assessment.
• if one of your workers has an industrial accident or industrial disease, you can be charged with paying the full cost of the compensation claim: that can mean thousands of dollars.

An Affront to Human Dignity

Some British Columbians may regard a recent Human Rights decision in which a Burns Lake hotel manager was fined $500 for refusing to rent a room to a native Indian, and a subsequent levy of $750 in costs against the hotel as overly harsh. In an outspoken judgment that has the same authority as a court order, the board of inquiry described the hotel manager as being "warped by feelings of racial superiority." After all, the rationale might be, this was just a private business man who has the right to run his business as he sees fit. Perhaps he was wrong, but should it cost $1,250 for a lapse of judgment?

Under section 17 of the Human Rights Code the statutory limit of the board's jurisdiction could have resulted in a $5,000 award rather than $500. As the inquiry noted in its judgment, "... the sum of $500 in no way is to be taken as a measure of the real damages suffered by the complainant in respect of her feelings of self respect. Were the board to have considered the problem of compensation from that aspect ... the provisions of section 1 (2) c(would not have sufficed." The board added that behind such conduct lies a state of mind which neither the legislature nor this board can change effectively.

All this is true. But at the same time no civilized society with egalitarian pretensions can allow its members, native Indians, women, teenagers or whatever, to be discriminated against. How seriously do we really take an affront to human dignity? It is impossible to measure the pyschic damage to a person who is constantly berated because of racial heritage, sex or even age. We can see the results though, in timorous old people, sullen teenagers and angry Indians who bury their pride in an alcoholic haze. Nor should we forget generations of women who were given the choice of housewife, teacher or purse. In terms of human potential, the price has been very high for society's prejudicial blinders.

Let us examine the Burns Lake case, a classical example of the schizoid white world, from an Indian point of view. The woman refused the Burns Lake room needed it in order that she wouldn't have to commute from her home in Houston, B.C. Her purpose in Burns Lake was to take a course in truck driving under the auspices of the regional college there. In other words, this Indian person was actively striving to make it in white society, to learn a trade and become a wage earner. Noble values of the larger society. And what example do we show this person who has tacitly indicated she wants to join the larger society? We offer her expertise but we won't give her a bed in which to sleep. No wonder Indians are bitter and cynical about the white man's ways.

If anyone ever doubted the need for human rights legislation and its strict enforcement this judgment provides an answer. To its credit the Bennett government appears to have recognized the importance of a zealous Human Rights Branch in British Columbia. Any political tampering with this important government instrument would bring down the wrath of all fair minded people on the government. Prejudice in its many forms is disgusting. And as the board of inquiry in the Burns Lake case stated, it is conduct that will not be tolerated in our community any longer.

"When the forest industry started losing money, something in Henry snapped."

Free Margaret

I think Lady Margaret should have her rights of freedom.

Everyone is labeling her like a can of preserves. Not that she should act as if she's crazy but she should have her freedom. She's the wife of the prime minister and they're saying she has to do this and that. But she can't do what she wants for her own amusement.—Aila Johanna Marosteninaki, age 10, Victoria.

Royal Cartoon

May I have the privilege of answering Mr. Thomas Baxter's criticism of the Times recent cartoon on the Queen? I thought that cartoon was amusing.

As a many-generation Canadian I have learned long ago, it is quite in order for the British to make fun or be amused at themselves, but woe betide any outsider who takes that liberty.

I am definitely against the British Queen opening the Quebec Olympics, for the reason if anything went wrong — it has and could again — all Canada would be forever damned. Why take that risk?

Secondly, I think it is demeaning to our own society. Surely we have a male or female who could do that little chore as efficiently as someone who does not live in Canada at all.

It is time we were more charitable toward our own values.

As a person well past middle age I have yet to learn of even being asked a reciprocal privilege from our country. One-way fawning can be very boring and could diminish any esteem completely.

It looks to me once again we are to be inoculated with another country's culture against our own destiny out of the path of medieval myths in our history. — Len Skelton, 4068 Grange Road.

Think Again

I have for the past while, after the announcement of revised Autoplan rates, figured on an enormous premium increase, but felt somehow that it wouldn't be as severe as it was predicted to be.

On Feb. 3, I received my renewal application in the mail. It will now cost me $436 to insure my 16-year-old Pontiac, which has a blue book value of about $450. Any accident with damages of $200 or less will have to be paid by me, and glass breakage, theft, etc. covered by comprehensive will only be paid for if over $50.

I have owned this car for over five years and have over $7,000 in it by way of body work, paint and a new drive train. But in the event of an accident I stand to lose all of my investment in it as ICBC will not repair it if the damage comes to over $200, as to them the car is 16 years old and not worth the repairs.

Under the former NDP government my total premium was $153 and this included a $100 deductible collision clause and a $25 comprehensive clause. I am 24 years old, never have had any accidents, points or tickets but still must pay this penalty for being my age.

Yes "think free — join S.C." Free to be ripped off. — Alan Quin, 3104 Quadra Street.

Bright Woman

After reading your coy little questionnaire in the Feb. 4 Times asking readers to censure Margaret Trudeau, I am not surprised that Mrs. Trudeau felt compelled to defend herself on an openline program in Ottawa. The news media continues its asinine reports almost daily.

Your article implied it was Mrs. Trudeau's intention to deliberately thwart protocol. Not so. According to an interview I heard on CBC radio she stated that when she proposed singing her tribute it created confusion and she would have discarded the idea had she realized it would create such a "hassle." I believe she is a loving, warm person who risked ridicule (knowing she doesn't sing well) in order to show love and respect to Mrs. Carols Perez. And this can offend Canadians? Shame on us.

MARGARET TRUDEAU
. . . A Bright Woman

Who establishes correct international protocol? No doubt a group of pretentious little men.

I admire Mrs. Trudeau's candid attitude which views situations realistically. She seems a bright and considerate woman who would not deliberately cause discomfort or embarrassment at any formal function.

How she lives her private life is no concern of the public and I salute this courageous woman. — Supports Margaret.

Constructive Ideas

I read the letters section of your paper with interest, but I am more than a little distressed by the number of people who consider that bare criticism, without the slightest attempt at constructive suggestion, is a reasonable input.

There is no doubt that ICBC is a mess. It was fostered by the NDP's overconcern for people and worsened by the Socred's total lack of concern for people. Where will we be hit next by an action aimed primarily at showing up a deficiency in the previous administration? It is doubtful if the public would be less put upon in a completely reversed political situation. We must never stop reminding the government (whichever party is in power) of this fiasco and ensure that we are never victimized again.

I suggest the following actions to reduce monetary losses to ICBC:

Enact legislation making it illegal to re-licence any vehicle which has been declared an insurance write-off.

Follow the Canadian Forces example and establish maximum repair levels (in dollars) based on vehicle age and mileage. (i.e. it is not logical to spend equal repair money on a 1970 vehicle with 115,000 miles as one one with only 40,000 miles on the odometer.)

Greenpeace Antics

It is with increasing consternation that I follow the antics of the Vancouver-based, so-called conservation group, the Greenpeace Foundation. I firmly believe that in many issues, such emotional and publicity-seeking groups do more harm than good, and nowhere more so than in their latest escapades concerning the seal hunt on the eastern seaboard.

Their prime argument aappears to be centred on the alleged cruelty of the seal hunt, often accompanied by a picture of a "baby" seal looking like a somewhat overgrown and bemused teddy bear. Seldom do we see pictures of "baby" cows when discussing the beef trade. Such emotionalism is also unneccesary when discussing the seal hunt and serves only to cloud the issue. Another favorite is the "baby seal being skinned alive" story, again complete with pictures. These pictures have now been proved beyond all shadow of doubt to have been specially faked for propaganda purposes. Even if a seal hunter was cruel enough to do such a thing, he would not be stupid enough to risk losing either his hand or the value of the coat, by putting a razor sharp knife to a live seal.

Above all, however, it is the naive arrogance of this elitist group from one of the richest provinces in Canada that is disturbing. The average income in B.C. is more than double that in Newfoundland. The Newfoundland sealers who still go on the hunt, go because they have to go, not because they want to go.

If there is indeed some question as to the harp seal population, then the efforts of Greenpeace would be better directed at the large scale Norwegian hunt and establishment of the 200 mile limit, instead of the Newfoundlanders who have borne the brunt of the attack thus far. Unfortunately, however, Greenpeace appears to be more interested in the glamor, publicity and emotionalism attached to a species or issue, rather than the most expedient way of solving that problem. — Phillip Dearden, Victoria.

Handling Militants

After just one month of office, we are seeing the new Social Credit government put to the test, mainly in handling the militants who enjoyed some three years of "power to the people" (if they happened to have the right left wing philosophy).

As a non-political observer, I can only applaud Premier Bill Bennett for his handling of a sticky situation. I have a sneaking feeling that this man will give B.C. the leadership and guidance it needs — that of a strong hand in a velvet glove!

I can rest easy at night, knowing that tomorrow I won't find my lawn pulled from under me! — Gary W. Mangelsen, 3356 Wellsmith Crescent.

Subsidy Paradox

I would like to present another point of view other than Dr. McGeer's statement to the effect that he will not subsidize bent fenders and sacrifice social programs.

Most funds for social programs are directed largely toward subsidizing human frailty. Included are funds — large amounts — for persons who live unwisely or with excess strain or stress resulting in problems in housing, family breakdown, financial crises, criminal conviction, learning problems, alcoholism, drug addiction. Not all, but many could be eliminated from the taxpayers' bill by wiser living, and yet we agree to subsidize human frailty whether inherent or practised.

Most car insurance claims are due to human error and misjudgment, that is, human frailty.

We subsidize ferries and public transport (including accidents and claims) to facilitate the movement of people and goods. Why not cars?

Another factor is that the car has become an integral part of our social fabric and an absolute necessity in all but the inner urban areas. It is a part of our social program just as much as sports, theatre, libraries, music, community centres or continuing education — all of which receive subsidies. We pay sales tax on our shopping to subsidize health care in our hospitals, whatever the case of the hospitalization. Why not a gas tax?

Please look beyond the actuarial studies alone. — H. Nicol, 1475 Banff Place.

Bad Investment

The most talked of subject in B.C. these days has got to be ICBC. No one enjoys paying more, whether it is for insurance or other services, but the facts are there for all of us to see.

This province has undergone three-year anaesthesia and we are just coming out of it now, back to consciousness and stark reality. The province has been very ill, deathly ill for the past three years and now if the patient is to survive, the medicine that's before us must be taken even though it tastes bad. It is a necessity if we are to regain our health. Come on British Columbians, let's pull together and give Bill Bennett a helping hand, he needs it. His job is a tough one. He has to put the province on a paying basis. He has to announce to all of us the bad news of deficits and losses. He is an honorable man and he is telling it like it is.

The three years of socialism we have experienced could be termed a bad investment, and as many of your readers know, a bad investment has to be settled one way or another. The NDP and their supporters would have you believe the debts and losses, they incurred in the hundreds of millions, do not have to be settled and as most sensible British Columbians know, this is not true. We have got to pay for NDP financial stupidity. We don't have to like it, but we have got to settle their bad, bad business mistakes. — E. Lorimer, Vancouver.

Effective Transit

In an age when we consider public transit to be economically and environmentally sound, it seems a pity to me that governments don't choose to subsidize only motorists in rural areas where a public transit system is not feasible, and develop in the urban areas a cheap and effective transit system from the balance of the gasoline tax. The NDP subsidized both ICBC and transit; it looks like the Social Credit will subsidize neither. General Motors will continue to be happy! —, Robert Gage, 3970 — Olympic View Drive.

Thoughts on Protest

A group of demonstrators storms a provincial government cabinet meeting. Result? The beginning of a myth of a cool, smiling, reasonable premier. "Myth" is used advisedly. Only one reporter (CBC) appears to have noted that Mr. Bennett's "cool" was the result of excellent orchestration by Lawrie Wallace, the deputy provincial secretary.

I observed the demonstration and did not feel at any time that the protesters were out of control. Unfortunately (and this has been noticed many times in the past) the average citizen who finally does become angry, frustrated and desperate enough to make some positive protest, has not the expertise to put his case across to the media. He is usually excited, probably scared, and on unfamiliar ground. (Most of the welfare demonstrators had never even been inside the legislative buildings let alone seen a cabinet meeting of such exalted (?) beings as their duly elected representatives.)

To the inexperienced man in the street it is very difficult to articulate a neat little presentation suitable for radio, television or newspaper reporting, particularly since the anger and frustration has built up as the result of perhaps a million hurts and indignities over a period of time.

How is it possible to encapsulate these into a few words? Under the circumstances it is scarcely surprising that he is represented by the media as an hysterical rabble-rouser, while the politician, wise in the ways of putting himself across with the media, used to coping with crowds and sitting in familiar surroundings, can smile and present a picture of sweet reasonableness.

DEMONSTRATIONS

Storming a cabinet meeting is not, perhaps, an acceptable means of getting a point across, but protest through the proper channels is a sterile business at best. As a public servant I know just what reaction those earnest, sincere, letters from "concerned citizens" receive. I also know just how much sincerity is contained in the standard placatory replies. I fear that until some genuinely concerned, sympathetic and active attention is given to complaints sent through the "proper channels," future confrontations (and there almost certainly will be many), may not be as harmless as that directed at Mr. Vander Zalm this month. —Civil Servant.

Midget Palace

On CBC radio this morning a Mr. Bastion from Montreal was being interviewed about an association of "little people" or "midgets." He stated they did not know of any in Vancouver or Victoria and wondered if listeners would give the name and address of their association to any "little people" they knew.

I have seen several in Victoria, but not knowing who they are, decided to write and give the address to the newspapers. If interested they should write to: "Midget Palace," 961 Rachel Street, Montreal, Que. Phone (514) 527-1121.

School Closure

Allow me to elaborate on former school trustee Phil Perry's statement that the Greater Victoria school board showed an error of judgment in its decision to close Lampson Street elementary school.

Grade six and seven students from Lampson and Victoria West elementary will be re-directed to Highrock junior secondary, which is presently undergoing over $1 million worth of long-overdue renovations and additions of new science labs, shops, and home economics rooms. With the new grade structure (six-nine) more than half the school population will never use these, and they will stand empty much of the time. Meanwhile, these same special rooms in the senior secondary will be overcrowded with the addition of students formerly accommodated in the junior secondary. The result will be drastically reduced time-per-pupil use of equipment.

Aside from the educational disadvantage to the senior students, this represents a gross misuse of capital tied up in school facilities. Since these special rooms are more costly, it is far more serious than leaving five empty elementary classrooms in Rockheights and Macaulay. Lampson presently has only one free classroom.

But will these five rooms remain empty? Consider the following: It appears that the number of students going out of the Esquimalt school system is about equal to the number coming in next year. It will be a tight squeeze to accommodate Lampson's 439 students plus the new grade ones. There will be no room for the estimated 600 children extra from planned new construction. Also, although the birth rate in Greater Victoria shows a decline, that of Esquimalt shows a slight increase!

The school board has requested authorization to borrow money for, among other things, a new school within a half mile of Lampson Street school. They are also considering the addition of eight classrooms to Rockheights school to accommodate new population. The cost of the new school is estimated at over $1 million, not including land; over $500,000 for the addition of eight classrooms. It is estimated that it will cost $150,000 to bring Lampson up to the National Building Code, Bill 100, and School Buildings Manual requirements, according to school board officials. About 80 per cent of Victoria schools do not meet these standards now. Another $175,000 would add a gymnasium to Lampson, the only school of its size that doesn't have one.

It is interesting to note that four of the five trustees who voted for closure, reside in Oak Bay, where there are more empty classrooms, and a more rapidly declining school population, than anywhere else in the city, and where there are two schools the same age as Lampson. However, no Oak Bay schools are to be closed, Oak Bay children are not to be disrupted, but are to have lots of space for music and cultural activities, as well as a free choice of schools.

We can always vote the five trustees out next November for inequitable treatment of different areas of the district, for wasting tax dollars, and for neglecting the quality of education in certain areas — but how much irreparable damage will they have done in the meantime? — Alan, C. Robertson, 1149 Wychbury Avenue.

From the Times of February 10, 1916

OTTAWA — Col. Robert S. Low, the well known Halifax contractor who has been inspecting the ruins of the parliament buildings at the invitation of the government, states in the press here this morning that the system of ventilation in the buildings, combined with the extensive use of varnish and shellac on the woodwork and floors of the buildings were the basis for the rapid spread of flames throughout the structure. He said the racks in the reading room where the fire started were thick with varnish, a most inflammable material, that the wood was light pine, very dry, and the doors had recently been coated with shellac, while the loose newspapers and files completed a "most perfect arrangement for a sudden and successful conflagration."

Honduras: A Classic Example of Poor-nation Starvation

By SIMON WINCHESTER
Manchester Guardian

No one in the hospital appeared to be unduly concerned when 4-year-old Sonia Enamorado died of starvation. No mother waited tearfully by the cot. The doctor was busy attending the rasping wailing from the other wasted bodies in the tiny ward. Only one nurse seemed interested: she laid a small muslin square over Sonia's once-pretty face, to keep the flies back for her last few moments.

She died just 30 minutes after the priest had made his bored exit from a perfunctory last rites. The next day he would probably preach a warning homily to peasants like Sonia's destitute mother lest they should dare to try to stop bearing children.

No one cared about the little girl's dying simply because Honduras has seen and endured—more often this year than most, admittedly—hunger and starvation and poverty for what must seem an eternity. This country is the second least developed in the western hemisphere (Haiti is first, but hunger seems less of a problem on that mysterious island) and, even though it is less than a couple of hours by Boeing from the southern United States, it looks like remaining that way for many decades to come. For specialists in the world food crisis, Honduras is the perfect archetype: people are dying here by the hundred for want of food, and for want of a proper diet, for all the classic reasons.

Food production here is abysmally low. Even though Honduras is the model of the Latin American banana republic—it sends half a ton of unripened bananas per head to the United States—the average farmer here produces less in a year than many an average westerner eats in a month.

Upon the slopes around Santa Barbara peasants live in grass-roofed huts of hardened mud: a few stringy chickens cluck around in the rubbish; there may be a tiny patch of hoed but stony ground from which a small thicket of maize will push up its weary head. From that corn will come the crude flour to bake the flat, tasteless tortillas that are the basis of the Honduran diet: from the chickens, perhaps the odd half lempira that might buy sugar, or matches, or cooking oil.

One woman, nursing her swollen-bellied infant back to health in a hospital in Tegucigalpa, said she fed her four children "one egg a year, some tortillas when the grain is there, a few beans if they are available." By all accounts, she was typical.

"Their diet is so very bad—that is as much the problem as anything," says Dr. Carlos Medina of the Nutrition Department at the Mother and Child Hospital in the capital. "Out in the country—and here in the city too—the peasant people are so very ignorant. Because of the "macho" thing here, women will become pregnant by men who have no intention of caring for their children, and because of their ignorance they have no idea how to look after the children when they are born. True, the poverty is appalling, and that is partly the reason for their condition. But if they can be taught to boil the leaves of the radishes that grow wild in the hills, if they are taught that beans contain 26 per cent protein, they could feed their offspring at least a balanced diet. A lot of teaching has to be done."

Dr. Medina estimates that 500,000 Honduran children suffer currently from malnutrition; of these, 60,000 show all the symptoms of classic stage three malnutrition, and are in urgent need of hospital care. Want of money restricts the country to one simple intensive care unit. Every bed was filled there last week; 50 children, their faces and limbs scarred with pellagra, their legs puffy with oedema, their bellies ballooning with the emptiness of protein deficiency, their once black hair reddened or turned blond with sickness.

Those children lucky enough to spend three weeks in Dr. Medina's unit will be cured, sent to a rest home to take five massive meals a day of bananas and black bean soup and stews and orange juice, and then returned to mothers chastened by the brush with death. But most others will die—and perhaps as many children as now live in Birmingham or Glasgow are destined to suffer permanent brain damage or irreparable harm to their eyes or their ears, simply because there is not enough money, nor enough knowledge, nor enough food, for them to be given what other western children know is theirs' by absolute right—a full stomach every day.

There are other problems, too. Communications in Honduras are poor. There is only one road to Santa Barbara from the nearest big city. It takes a Land Rover three hours to penetrate the mountain jungles, and no lorry can make the journey in under a day. Our two-seater plane only just managed the tiny airstrip: horses and cattle (the transport and the food of the village's middle class, one assumes) sat unmoving on the runway as we landed. It is difficult to bring food into this village when American or Canadian aid is landed at the docks—and in villages further out still it is well nigh impossible. The only food in those communities is what is produced locally—and with a technology and an apptitude as lacking as is the outside interest in the problem, so the villagers starve to death.

The fickle weather adds its share of grief. A year ago Hurricane Fifi destroyed farms and banana plantations for thousands of acres in the northern half of the country. For much of last summer, severe drought has burned away the maize and withered the bean crop. The grain harvest was, according to the United Nations, reduced by half last year. The hospital in Santa Barbara has charted the progress of the famine. Three children starved to death here on average during each month of the spring; seven died in August after the crop failed; then ten in October, and another seven in November. Sonia's death brought December's toll to two and the year's to 450.

Food aid in the Caribbean ports stood on the dockside for weeks, waiting for non-existent lorries to haul it away. Rats and rot demolished much of it before it could be of any use. And with grain the price that this year's vast international deals have made it, Honduras, lacking in foreign exchange, can afford to purchase little.

Dr. Medina believes money is the only answer. Money to build the hospitals to cure the starved infants; money to build the schools to tell the mothers how to feed their babies; money to improve the state of farming, to pave the roads, to buy lorries, to construct warehouses on the dockside, to pay for American and Canadian grain. In the short term, internationally directed help, free food, helicopters, advice, fertilizers, low interest loans—and, most of all, a sense of international will that the world outside means to alleviate the kind of suffering that a proud little nation like Honduras is having to endure.

Egypt Contemplates a Return To Punishments of Dark Ages

By IRENE BEESON
London Observer

CAIRO — Crucifixion, stoning, scourging and amputation are some of the punishments awaiting Egyptians if a draft law recently submitted to the People's Assembly is passed.

Plans to reform Egyptian punitive legislation to accord with Islamic Shari'a law have been under discussion for some time. A committee set up for the purpose has held meetings here and in Saudi Arabia, where Islamic law is the law of the land.

The member of the Assembly who submitted the proposed amendments, Dr. Ismail Maatouq, shows a zeal that seems inspired by the works of the Marquis de Sade rather than the Koran. The Muslim holy book invariably stresses God's mercy and counsels indulgence and forgiveness, but Dr. Ismail shows no lenience.

For adultery, he proposes stoning to death, a form of punishment carried out in Saudi Arabia.

According to the Koran, the punishment for adultery or fornication is a hundred lashes, but the holy book places virtually insurmountable obstacles in the way of carrying out the sentence. A person cannot be found guilty unless the accusation is supported by four eye-witnesses. Judicial authorities of early Islam also demanded that the four witnesses give testimony of anatomical precision. The Koran states that if the accusers cannot produce four witnesses, they themselves must be punished with 80 lashes.

Dr. Ismail would have the bachelor who commits fornication lashed 100 times and exiled . . . "if he is a Muslim". For the unmarried woman guilty of this sin, the punishment would be 100 lashes and confinement to her home. Attempted seduction would be let off lightly, with only from 60 to 90 lashes; incitement to fornication, by word or action, with 20 to 50.

The hand that steals must be cut off, the draft law decrees. Failure to return borrowed money warrants from 20 to 50 lashes. The borrower who does not repay punctually would be liable to a prison term of two to six months.

Dr. Ismail recommends cutting off the hands and legs as punishment for attempted robbery or rape. If such an attempt results in the death of the victim, then the culprit should be sentenced to death by hanging. But, he adds ferociously, he must be crucified for three days before he hangs.

The Muslim who drinks wine or spirits would receive 80 lashes and there is no escape from the scourge even for the abstainer. If he happens to be in company with others while they are drinking and is "suspected of drinking with them," he is liable to 10 or 20 lashes. The Muslim who makes or shares in making or in selling alcoholic drinks would receive from 50 to 70 lashes.

The non-Muslim Egyptian may get away with adultery, fornication, rape and theft, with or without violence. But Dr. Ismail catches up with him on the lesser crimes of making and selling wines and spirits. Here he achieves equality with the Muslim compatriot — 50 to 70 lashes.

Egyptian friends have commented that application of such a law would be as destructive as an atomb bomb. The whole country would cease to function.

The government would be the first to be answerable to the reformed law, they explain. One of its crimes is licensing a flourishing national wines and spirits industry, hotels, restaurants, nightclubs, bars, cafes and shops where alcoholic drinks are made, sold and drunk by Egyptians of all faiths.

It could also be charged with inciting to fornication, both by word and action, in allowing scantily clad Muslim girls and women to perform in public places and on television the erotic belly dance for which Egypt is famed.

Countless cases of bribery, corruption and embezzlement committed by persons in high places are awaiting investigation. The Cairo daily Al Goumhouriyah charged recently that the government had paid out about $4 billion in commissions over a period of 10 years. "Do the beneficiaries fall foul of the law?" the paper asked, and invited people to force them and the millionaires who have become "fat cows," "fat sheep" and "fat cats" at the expense of the masses to disgorge their ill-gotten gains.

Speculation, usury, black marketeering, illegal dealings in foreign currency and tax evasion are all widespread. Prostitution, procuring, adultery, fornication and incitement to all these sins are following the inflationary trend. Cases of housebreaking, shoplifting, pilfering, theft, petty larceny, overcharging and short-changing are spreading.

If Dr. Ismail's corrective stonings, floggings and amputations were carried out, the country's manpower would be so depleted that it would be left with a skeleton working force.

Punishment would have to be followed, logically, by closing the wine and spirit industry, nightclubs and casinos. The belly dance and floor shows would be banned. So would most films currently passed by the censor, who appears to reason that sex and violence are less harmful to Egyptian youth than entertainment that might stimulate political and social thinking.

The tens of thousands of petro-dollar-rich Arabs who flock to the fleshpots of Egypt to escape the rigors of Islamic law in their own countries would go elsewhere. There would be few non-Muslim visitors who would want to admire the antiquities of a dry, de-sexed Egypt.

Those Egyptians left with a leg to stand on or a hand to grip a glass or tankard would get out. None but the religious fanatic, the naive or the ignorant seriously expects the law to be passed. The average Egyptian reads the draft law in the daily press with a mixture of contempt and apprehension.

He is shocked by the hypocrisy of the exercise and worried that he is represented by men whose minds are still dallying in the dark ages. He suspects that this indulgence in sado-sexual fantasies is a way of escape from facing the urgent problems of Israeli occupation of Sinai, the state of the economy, the agony of Lebanon and the falling apart of the Arab world.

A worrying aspect of the debate is that it has reached the mosque. In recent weeks, Friday sermons in some Cairo mosques have taken the form of impassioned calls to lash, stone, crucify Muslims who sin. One sheikh, carried away by the gory visions, went even farther, exhorting the faithful to "cut into little pieces" any Muslim who drinks.

But one crime not mentioned in Dr. Ismail's draft law is incitement to violence and mass killing.

The lash proposed for attempted seduction

A Modern Gothic Tale

russell baker

It is the Dark Ages. There is nothing to do but raid monasteries and sack Rome. Mail service is abominable. Since last names have fallen into disuse, envelopes are addressed simply to Attila the Hun, Axel the Saxon, Clarence the Vandal and The Venerable Bede.

One day Otho the Ostrogoth receives a letter from Victor the Viking. It proposes that they prepare a party to pillage Paris next summer and put it to the torch. "I love Paris in the summer when it sizzles," writes Victor the Viking.

Otho the Ostrogoth sees at once that the letter is not meant for him. It is meant for Otho the Visigoth, an agent of the CIA who is under deep cover as a swineherd in the Mabinogian forest.

Slipping into his halberd and pike and pausing only long enough to caution Frau Otho, the Ostrogothess, that she must hide the schnapps in the roof cellar when Mongol plunderers come by, Otho tucks the letter into his bearskin robe and sets forth.

It is a hard journey to Paris. Nothing but mud for hundreds of miles, relieved only by occasional torture at the hands of the marauding forces of Francois the Frank. Exhausted, Otho the Ostrogoth finally pauses at Dijon for one of its famous mustard dinners and to pick up his forwarded mail.

It contains only a letter from the Reader's Digest and a subpoena commanding him to appear in Washington to testify in a congressional investigation of the CIA.

The committee advises Otho that he may as well talk freely, since everything he says will be leaked to the press. "Do we correctly understand," asks the chairman, "that you are part of a CIA network involved with the plan of one Victor the Viking to pillage Paris?"

Otho, of course, can do nothing but look dumb. He looks so dumb, in fact, that one congressman is reminded of a Goth joke. "Do you know why the Goths had to close their zoo?" he asks.

"No," says Otho.

"The clam died," says the congressman in a collapse of merriment.

Then is Otho the Ostrogoth truly infuriated. He is sick and tired of Goth jokes. Sick and tired of the whole Dark Ages and all the dumbness and sacking that goes with them. He is sick and tired of sacking Rome, sick and tired of being tortured every time you leave the hut, sick and tired of always getting other peoples' mail because you don't have a sensible last name.

"Gothic is beautiful!" he thunders.

Then he charges out of the hearing room and begins plundering the Capitol. This persuades the Congress that he is a lobbyist. Everyone treats him with new respect. Oldtimers, awed by his forthright style with the axe, advise him of the whereabouts of the Treasury, and Otho plunders that.

Society reporters hail him as the most exciting new personality on the Washington plunder scene and political reporters say he has the charisma necessary to win the New Hampshire primary. Decent liberals hold fund-raisers to finance a committee to stamp out Goth jokes, and congressmen investigating the CIA promise to listen quietly if Otho will talk to them.

His tale is simple. An honest Ostrogoth, he had been enraged at learning that Otho the Visigoth was a CIA man working with the vicious Victor the Viking. It was this sort of thing that gave Goths a bad name. He, Otho the Ostrogoth, had decided to show humanity that Goths are decent honorable folks. And so, he had set out to apprise Paris that pillage impended.

Certain congressmen are stunned. "You intended to make public classified information?" they ask.

"To publicize plots for putting Paris to the pyre," says Otho.

Otho is immediately classified secret. To prevent him from being leaked, the President has him sent home by way of England where King Alfred teaches him to burn pancakes. Later, on the road to Sussex, he is captured by a band of monks and imprisoned in a monastery where he spends the rest of his days illuminating manuscripts.

Fish Cannery in Line for More Aid

The provincial government plans to give the troubled Port Simpson cannery more financial aid in exchange for assurance of stricter financial control.

An agreement is being drafted by government lawyers which would see the native Indian fishing project come under greater financial scrutiny.

Labor Minister Allan Williams said Monday the agreement should be ready by the end of the week and if the Indian co-operative agree to it, the province will provide more financial aid.

He would not say how much money will be provided or detail the terms of the agreement.

The cannery project was reported in serious financial trouble recently with payroll cheques bouncing and larger accounts with suppliers left outstanding.

A total of $7 million provincial funds has gone into the fishing co-op since its inception under the NDP government.

Quebec Taking Morgentaler Case All the Way to Supreme Court

MONTREAL (CP) — The Jan. 20 acquittal of Dr. Henry Morgentaler on a charge of having performed an illegal abortion is to be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, Fernand Lalonde, Quebec Solicitor-General, announced Monday.

The Quebec Court of Appeal on Jan. 20 rejected an appeal by the Crown against a June, 1975, jury acquittal of Dr. Morgentaler on the charge.

Lalonde said in a statement the Crown has chosen to launch the appeal "because it concerns a question of great importance with regard to future applications of provisions in the Criminal Code relating to abortion."

Three judges of the appeal court unanimously ruled that in the original trial, defence counsel Claude-Armand Sheppard legally raised the defence of necessity on the charge of procuring a miscarriage.

In the opinion of the court, the Crown failed to establish in its appeal that any irregularities existed in the trial which merited overturning the jury verdict, the judges said.

Bourassa Still Pushing For Federal Games Aid

MONTREAL (CP) — It is "relevant" to ask whether Canada's image abroad would be damaged by a federal government refusal to help meet the financial deficit of the Montreal Olympics, Premier Bourassa said Monday.

Bourassa said he expects to meet Prime Miniter Trudeau in the next few weeks to press his claim for a return to Quebec of unexpected federal tax monies generated by Olympic spending and inflation.

The premier appeared at a news conference with Victor Goldbloom, the Quebec municipal affairs minister who had returned from Innsbruck, Austria, where he reported to the International Olympic Committee on construction for the Summer Olympics scheduled to open July 17.

"Until the meeting in Innsbruck there was a question mark about the Games," said Bourassa.

"Now we are very confident . . . In normal circumstances there will be no problem — the Games will be held in July, 1976.

"But the next 100 days are exceptionally important for all Quebecers and I hope there will be solidarity among all Quebec groups — among all the sectors of our society for the next 100 days.

Asked whether he was referring to construction unions whose province-wide contract decree expires late in April, Bourassa repeated that he meant all sectors but labor obviously constitutes a crucial segment.

There have been no work stoppage since the Quebec government took over responsibility for Olympic construction from the city of Montreal last November, but the project was plagued earlier by strikes.

At one point the premier appeared to hold out the possibility of an extension of the present police investigation into suspected fraud in construction of the Olympic village, which will house athletes at the Games.

He also said there is no truth to reports that authorities wanted police to delay pressing charges until after the Games because of the unfavorable publicity that would ensue.

The "integrity of the public administration" is more important than bad publicity, the premier declared.

AIB STANDS FIRM ON CLOSED DATA

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The Anti-Inflation Board Monday reiterated its policy of not disclosing "as a matter of routine" decisions not to roll back price or compensation increases.

The board, however, said it may make public "some decisions not to intervene when the parties or companies involved are of particular interest to the public."

A board spokesman said this would propably include price increases in industries such as steel and automobiles, and might include some food prices.

This policy reiteration follows disclosure last week that some of the Board's own officials were in favor of fuller disclosure of board action in the areas of prices and profits.

The board's decision to keep confidential many of its discussions with companies has aroused considerable criticism, particularly from organized labor.

Beryl Plumptre, vice-chairman of the board, meanwhile, warned food processors and distributors Monday in Vancouver that the board is ready and prepared to investigate any apparently unjustified price increases.

"The board is already making a weekly check of the prices of approximately 90 food items in at least five supermarkets in each of 13 cities across Canada," she told a local retail operations convention of the Kelly, Douglas wholesale food chain.

The information is used to measure monthly food price changes and to check changes in prices for individual items.

"If these early monitoring and investigations turn up what look like unjustified increases in the price of any food product, the board will examine the profit margins of the processing and distributing firms concerned," she said.

AIRPORT FEE EXPLAINED

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans to boost airport landing fees by 30 per cent and impose a new 66-cents-a-passenger security charge are based on a policy that airport users, rather than taxpayers generally, should pay operations cost, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey said Monday.

Ron Huntington (PC—Capilano) said the increases clash with the spirit of the government's anti-inflation program.

'Legitimate Rights'

OTTAWA (CP) — The public should not object to the limited use of French at Quebec airports because « Quebecers have a right to bilingual serivices, Irenee Pelletier (L—Sherbooke) said Monday night.

"You'd have to be out of your mind to try to deprive Quebecers of their 'legitimate right," he told the Commons.

He was replying to Benno Friesen (PC—Surrey-White Rock) who said safety is the most important consideration in deciding the language of communications between aircraft and control towers.

Maclean's View Grits McKinnon

OTTAWA (CP) — If Time magazine stops publishing its Canadian edition, Canadian readers won't be able to become well-informed about international news by reading Maclean's magazine, a Progressive Conservative MP said Monday.

Allan McKinnon (Victoria) told the Commons that Maclean's has a narrow view, and has only three pages of international news in its current issue.

The issue is full of pictures of Liberal cabinet ministers and senators, including a cover story on Prime Minister Trudeau, he said.

The only reference to the Conservatives is "a derogatory 'article" on the party's leadership contest with the title Bloody Sunday.

He was speaking during Commons debate of controversial advertiser tax legislation which would disallow Canadian advertisers from claiming 100-per-cent tax deductions for ads in Canadian editions of foreign periodicals and on U.S. border TV stations.

Advertisers seeking the tax deductions would have to place ads in Canadian periodicals—defined in the bill as 75-per-cent Canadian-owned and "not substantially the same" as any foreign publication.

The government has said it interprets "not substantially the same" as 80 per cent different.

However, under an arrangement revealed last week, the government said "Reader's Digest would be considered Canadian if it fulfils the ownership and other requirements. Material it edits and condenses in Canada will be considered Canadian content under the 80-per-cent rule.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said the government's interpretation of the bill is "a subversion of the judicial and parliamentary process."

Decisions affecting the press cannot be tolerated when they are made in private by a government minister without due process and full public hearings, he said.

Stanfield said there is a general feeling that Revenue Minister Bud Cullen made his decision concerning Reader's Digest under the pressure of public opinion.

MPs CONDEMN INTERVENTION

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservative opposition in the Commons succeeded on its third try Monday in getting the Liberals to agree to a motion condemning foreign intervention in the Angolan civil war.

But the Tories had to remove any direct reference in the resolution to Cuban intervention before the government MPs would support it.

And the motion passed on the first day that Prime Minister Trudeau was absent since his return from his controversial trip to Cuba.

Liberal MPs had refused required unanimous consent for similar motions Thursday and Friday of last week.

Trudeau had openly declared his opposition to Friday's motion.

Monday's resolutions called for the withdrawal of foreign combatants and military technicians engaged in warfare in Angola, the cessation of arms shipments and troops to that country, and negotiation by Angolan political groups for a peace settlement.

Three-Week Deadline on Tax

Late taxpayers in Esquimalt better pay up within three weeks or face court action.

Esquimalt council's finance committee delivered that ultimatum Monday night after tabling a report from treasurer Peter Cains which showed arrears in taxes owing to the municipality now totalled $130,000.

Cairns said the major defaulters were commercial holdings, that 12 properties were in arrears in excess of $1,000 and that one motel alone had a tax bill exceeding $27,000.

"They're definitely borrowing money cheaply from us," Cairns told committee members.

Property owners in arrears pay only eight per cent interest while the prime lending rate is currently 9¾ per cent.

The committee decided to follow Victoria's example in threatening to take delinquent taxpayers to court as provided under a section of the B.C. Municipal Act.

The more usual tax sale procedure takes three years to implement and according to Cairns delinquents usually pay up at the last moment.

Council will consider the recommendation aimed primarily at 10 owners of properties whose tax arrears each are in excess of $1,500.

In other business council agreed to raise the cost of building permits by 25 per cent after municipal engineer said the 1975 expenses related to building permits exceeded revenue by more than 22 per cent.

Late Effort to Save Lampson Shot Down

By KIT COLLINS
Times Staff

A last-ditch attempt by several school trustees to prevent closure of Lampson elementary school surfaced and died hard after a tough speech by board chairman Bill Ross at a meeting Monday.

Trustee Daphne Temple moved to delay the school closure for one year and allow better planning. This prompted a lecture from Ross, who accused some trustees of arguing "nonsense" and "eroding the board's decisions."

After almost an hour of rehashing reasons for the school closure, Ross refused to consider Temple's motion, saying the board had already decided the fate of Lampson and the agenda called only for discussion of a brief about the Grade 7 class at Victoria West Elementary.

Ross said it is "ridiculous for trustees to argue that delay is the best action, when Lampson has already been subjected to 16 years of delays.

"There have been two or three attempts to erode board decisions and if we see a continuation ... if several trustees continue to undermine the board, it will become a precedent and you, too, can expect to have your decision raised at subsequent meetings and undermined."

Continual discussion of the board's closure decision, he said, is leading to a point where the credibility of the board is becoming suspect.

Parent and teacher dissatisfaction with the plan to move Grade sevens from Vic West elementary to Highrock junior secondary — one of the effects of the Lampson closure — had found sympathetic ear in Trustee Lavinia Greenwood, who caucused with some of the parents throughout Monday's meeting.

Parents argued Grade 7s are not mature enough for a rotating class schedule at a junior secondary school and the move will place the sevens at a disadvantage.

Asked for his views on the move, Highrock principal Keith Bickmore argued it was unsound educationally to make Grade sevens face three school changes in four years. (Students would attend, Highrock, a junior secondary and senior secondary).

But he said staff at Highrock could be ready to take on the Grade sevens next year with a special curriculum that could see students in a home-room class for at least 50 per cent of the time.

When Greenwood sided with parents and said "decisions are not being made on the facts of the population in Esquimalt", and predicted the move would cause "great disruption" for the savings involved, Trustee Janet Baird entered the debate.

She said there was marked deterioration with the way the board is conducting its business — a continual rehash of the decision which isn't accomplishing much.

"To say we haven't made decisions on the facts is erroneous," she said.

It looked briefly as if the parents might win when assistant superintendent Dr. John Wiens suggested that Vic West would have enough space to keep the Grade sevens, expecially if a portable was moved on the site at a cost of $5,000.

But Ross argued for the board to stick to its original decision. Besides, he said, nowhere in the brief do parents specify why they need extra time before the move. Bickmore, he said, had indicated the staff at Highrock could be ready by September.

Mt. Newton School Work Delayed

Plans to either renovate or replace Mount newton junior high school won't begin until the new Stelly's Cross Road school opens in 1977, Saanich superintendent of schools Eric Lewis said Monday.

Lewis told school board trustees the new school will be needed to accommodate Mount Newton students during construction.

Hans Schneider, superintendent of buildings for the district said architects' preliminary reports on renovation of Mount Newton would not be ready for two months.

Trustees agreed that parents must be kept informed of plans for the school.

Until Stelly's Cross Road school opens, Grade 10 students from Mount Newton will graduate to Claremont. In the past Mount Newton students were split between Claremont and Parkland schools.

Portable classrooms would have to be moved across the district and teachers temporarily transferred if Parkland had to take on extra students, Lewis said. But, he added, Claremont has space for them.

Phony Invoice Racket Crops Up on Island

Victoria residents and businesses should check all invoices carefully before paying them, Better Business Bureau head Bill Tindall and police officials have warned.

A new con scheme, false invoices, has been plaguing Canadian companies and government agencies and is operating primarily out of the U.S. and some European countries.

Tindall and RCMP spokesman Supt. Robert Mullock of the B.C. commercial crime section, said the scheme includes:

—Computerized invoices sent to B.C. hospitals for equipment that was never purchased;

—Businesses and government departments receive invoices for employment advertisements placed in publications which do not exist;

—Citizens billed for a subscription to a magazine which they have not ordered.

Vancouver Island has not been hit as hard by the scheme as the Lower Mainland, but at least one Island area has had a taste of the con game.

The Cowichan Valley Regional District last week received an invoice for $229.75 from a company in Albuquerque, New Mexico, for employment ads placed in a fictious west coast publication.

Regional staff checked the invoice and found the ads had appeared in Victoria daily newspapers, but had nothing to do with the New Mexico company.

Mullock said the best advice for businesses was to watch accounts payable "very closely for anything suspicious", especially if the bill comes from the U.S.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Curbs Program Tops Talk Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Monday the federal government's anti-inflation program will be a major topic in his discussions with Premier Bennett in Victoria Wednesday.

Trudeau, in British Columbia on a working visit until Saturday, said B.C. has expressed its willingness to go along with the federal program, although it has certain reservations.

The prime minsiter, who flew to Vancouver in a ministry of transport jet, was accompanied by two of his children, Justin and Sacha. Mrs. Trudeau stayed in Ottawa with baby Michel.

He said Mrs. Trudeau did not come because "she's a bit tired and stayed home with the baby."

Mrs. Trudeau's sister, Betsy, took over care of the two Trudeau children on their arrival.

Trudeau went from the airport to the University of B.C. where he officially dedicated the $36-million TRIUMF nuclear research centre and said the federal government will provide additional funds to operate the cyclotron accelerator at full strength.

The cyclotron will be used in research into the structure of matter and as a special form of radiation therapy for cancer tumors and for preparing radio-isotopes.

The TRIUMF centre is a joint project of UBC, the University of Alberta, University of Victoria and Simon Fraser University and was built over six-year period. TRIUMF stands for Tri-University Meson Facility because originally there were only three universities involved.

However, fourth-quarter earnings were $53 million, up from $37.9 million in the fourth quarter of 1974. The company said its CP Air unit recorded its first loss in 13 years because of cost increases and lagging traffic. In the transport group, only trucking and telecommunication operations showed improved results. The income of Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. was higher and accounted for two-thirds of Canadian Pacific Ltd.'s earnings, the company said. Canadian Pacific Ltd. will hold its annual shareholders meeting in Montreal on May 5.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The wrold's deepest oil well is complete after 348 days of drilling and a cost of $3.3 million, Standard Oil Co. of California announced.

The four and one-half mile deep well, located near the Texas-Oklahoma border, cost $135 a foot and was indicative of what companies face in obtaining new gas supplies, Standard said.

"What does Odlum Brown say?"

The spectacular recovery of stock prices in the United States in January has so far been only partially reflected in the Canadian stock market. Historically there has usually been this type of lag. So while the U.S. stock market seems likely to continue its rise, the potential recovery in the Canadian stock market, from current price levels, seems even greater. For a discussion of this, and other topics of interest to investors phone or write us for a copy of our February market letter.

'Gross Error' Before Arctic Crash

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A senior Panarctic Oils Ltd. pilot Monday described as "a gross error" the flight procedure believed taken by a Panarctic pilot moments before a fatal Arctic air crash.

Testifying during the fifth day of a federal inquiry into the Oct. 30, 1974, crash of a Panarctic Electra, Ian Johnston, 47, of Calgary, was asked to evaluate the circumstances of flight just before the Electra crashed through the sea ice two miles short of a runway at Rea Point, 1,400 miles northeast of Edmonton. Thirty-two men, including pilot Brian Thomson of Leduc, Alta., were killed.

Asked if the pilot were to reduce engine power drastically and dip the plane's nose earthward while still several miles out from the runway, Mr. Johnston said there would be "certainly a question of what the man is doing."

"I would call it a gross error," he said.

"At three miles (from the runway), in cloud, at a very low altitude, I can find no rationality in it."

The transport department report on the accident said co-pilot David Hatton and flight engineer Gary Weyman, the only two survivors, attempted to correct the flight by grabbing the controls from Mr. Thomson, but failed.

Mr. Johnston said it would be conceivable for Mr. Thomson to have taken the action he did if he saw, or thought he saw, the runway. But this, he said, would be "inexplicable" because the Electra's distance measuring equipment in the cockpit showed the plane still several miles out from Rea Point with visibility less than a mile.

Mr. Johnston, who is responsible for training and checking out the company's pilots, said a pilot would expect to hear from his co-pilot that the runway was in sight before deciding to land. And, if visual contact with the surface was lost, the pilot should over-shoot the landing strip and try another approach.

Mr. Johnston also said he had virtually nothing to do with a transport department report on the crash although it bore his signature.

He said he was told by department officials that it didn't matter whether he signed it or not, so he signed it as an indication that he had read it. He didn't agree in any respect with the report but said he was never told he had the opportunity to file a minority report.

Regarding the proficiency of Mr. Thomson and the rest of the Electra crew, Mr. Johnston said he found the pilot to be "a very capable man in terms of his experience with the aircraft."

NUCLEAR PLANT DISASTER THREAT

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Con Edison atomic power plant near New York City is "an accident waiting to happen" that could be the world's largest peacetime catastrophe if faulty steam equipment explodes, says a nuclear safety engineer.

"If I had the authority, I would today require Indian Point No. 2 to shut down," Robert Pollard, a project manager for the U.S. Federal Nuclear Regulator Commission (NRC) said Monday. "To me, Indian Point 2 is an accident waiting to happen."

Pollard told a news conference there was no danger of an atomic explosion at the plant at Buchanan, N.Y., about 30 miles north of New York City in Westchester County.

But he said the facility's poor design and construction have created the high risk of a steam explosion which could release fissionable products into the atmosphere.

"It would be a catastrophic accident larger than anything else that has occurred in peacetime," Pollard said. "What we're talking about is the radioactive contamination of hundreds of square miles and thousands of deaths."

Pollard, 36, an electrical engineer who has supervised safety evaluations of seven nuclear plants for the NRC, announced his resignation effective Feb. 13 to protest alleged federal suppression of the potential dangers.

Cancer Warning Delay Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An AFL-CIO health official says scientists knew 15 years ago the pesticide kepone caused cancer, but it took the poisoning of workers at a Hopewell, Va., kepone plant before the menace was recognized.

"I have read the three reports submitted to the federal government by Allied (Chemical Corp.) in 1960, 1961 and 1962," said Sheldon Samuels in a statement to a U.S. congressional subcommittee probing Virginia's kepone disaster. "There was clear evidence that kepone was a carcinogen."

The panel, chaired by Rep. Dominick Daniel (D — N.J.), wants to know why 28 workers were poisoned by the roach and fire ant killer made at the now-defunct Life Science Products Co. under contract to Allied Chemical, which developed the pesticide in 1951. Daniel's subcommittee is charged with overseeing occupational safety and health laws.

Samuels, health director of the AFL-CIO's industrial union department, said one of the pathologists, who produced the kepone reports for Allied in the early 1960s, was employed by the National Cancer Institute (NIC), "yet nothing was done by government or management: no research, no regulation, no voluntary action aimed at kepone as a carcinogen as a consequence of these reports."

Daniel said "hundreds of kepones" may be lurking in the nation's work-places.

In the midst of all you're hearing about Retirement Savings Plans the Permanent asks you to remember just one thing.

Our Guaranteed Fund is one of the best.

9½% interest per year* is the current rate on our Guaranteed Fund, with no annual administration fee.
That's important.
But even more important, the Permanent Guaranteed Fund has out-performed those of many major companies over the last 10 years.
We don't think we have to convince you that a Registered Retirement Savings Plan is a good thing. The immediate tax savings and the nest egg for the future makes that fact obvious.
It is also obvious that a lot of different financial institutions are selling them and that most are basically the same. Except when it comes to performance.
We also offer an Equity Fund and a Fixed income Fund with nominal annual administration fees.
So if you are going to open a RRSP this year or considering a change please come into the branch nearest you for more information.
The deadline is March 1, 1976 for 1975 tax savings.
*Our current interest rate is, however, subject to adjustment each January and July of each year.
Copies of independent survey available at all offices of the Permanent.

Medal Loser Wins Another

INNSBRUCK (CP) — The Russians continued their march toward the Olympic championship in the Winter Games, winning gold medals in Nordic skiing and men's speedskating today while the strong East German team completed a sweep of the three luge gold.

Galina Kulakova, the Russian who lost a bronze medal over a "doping" charge, wound up with another bronze in the women's 10-kilometre cross-country race.

But Russia kept the gold in the family when schoolteacher Raisa Shetanina led all the way to win over Helena Takalo of Finland and Mrs. Kulakova.

Mrs. Takalo was the gold medallist in the five-kilometre cross-country Saturday and Miss Shetanina took the silver.

Mrs. Kulakova was deprived of her bronze medal in the shorter race for using nasal drops for a cold containing the banned drug ephedrine, but she was allowed to continue competition. She won both the five and 10-kilometre races four years ago.

Miss Smetanina, 24, covered the distance in 30 minutes 13.41 seconds. She was the silver winner in the five-kilometre. Mrs. Takol's time of 3:14.28 was more than four seconds ahead of Mrs. Kulakova's.

It was Russia's fourth gold medal in seven Nordic events.

Heini Hemmi gave Switzerland its first gold medal of the Games, today winning the men's giant slalom with a total time of three minutes 26.97 seconds for two runs.

The Swiss also took silver in the two-day event, Ernst Good clocking 3:26.17. World Cup leader Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden captured the bronze in 3:27.41. Italy's defending champion Gustavo Thoeni, the first-day leader, was fourth.

East Germany completed a sweep of the luge gold medals when Hans Rinn and Robert Hahn captured the two-seater competition.

Canadian skiers and lugers were far back. The Firth twins of Inuvik, N.W.T., were 28th and 29th with Sharon finishing just ahead of Shirley. Their times were 33:15.20 and 33:16.15. Sue Holloway of Ottawa placed 32nd in 34:03.49 and Joan Groothuysen, another Ottawa skier, was 34th in 34:16.35.

Canada's chances for a figure-skating medal improved immensely off the performance of Toller Cranston of Toronto in the men's singles. He was reasonably happy after receiving the highest marks in the short program Monday.

Cranston will have to wait until Wednesday's freestyle program to prove he is really one of the world's best figure skaters. The 26-year-old Canadian jcmped two places to fifth at the halfway mark.

John Curry of Britain, however, was the overwhelming favorite for the gold medal after overtaking world champion Sergei Volkov of Russia in the short program Monday.

Cranston's chances for a silver medal were rated good but he was strictly a longshot from the gold despite his ranking as the world's best freeskater.

"I was pleased that I could sort of come back, which I seem to have a habit of doing," Cranston said after placing first in the short program.

Sunday, Cranston was highly critical of the judging in the compulsory school figures. He was scored only seventh after doing poorly in the first two of three figures.

Mrs. Kulakova's problems started when she caught a cold that stopped her nasal passages before racing in the women's five-kilometre event last Saturday.

She placed third for the bronze medal. Her drug test showed traces of ephedrine in the urine and the International Olympic Committee reluctantly stripped her of the medal.

Nobody accused the Soviet star of cheating. Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said Mrs. Kulakova committed "a technical offence."

The Soviet husband-and-wife pair of Ludmila Pakhomova and Alexander Gorshkov, five-time world champions, were the inaugural winners of the ice-dancing event, new on the Olympic program.

Irina Moiseeva and Andrei Minenkov, the Soviet pair who won in their absence, settled for silver this time and Colleen O'Connor and Jim Millns of the United States were third.

Barbara Berezoeski of Toronto and David Porter of Port Perry, Ont., were 10th, three places ahead of Susan Carscallen and Eric Gillies of Toronto.

Herb Bate 'Not Unhappy' With Tie for World Title

bill walker

While everybody—well, almost—is claiming that Bates got a bad deal in having to share the world softball championship with the United States and New Zealand, Herb Bate, the team sponsor, doesn't share that opinion.

"I'm not to unhappy with the result," he said Monday on his return from Wellington, New Zealand, where the championships took place. "I could see the problem," he said. "What else could they do? Certainly, the teams couldn't play."

A lot of the flack concerning the championships came from the story out of New Zealand implying that Bates' coach Joe Patterson was going to quit as a coach because the International Softball Federation had decided to name three winners when the championship tournament couldn't be completed because of bad weather.

But apparently that isn't basically correct. Patterson earlier had intimated to many people that this would be his last year as a coach and the fact that he disagreed with the triple tie for the title had nothing to do with that decision.

And, insofar as Patterson's intended retirement is at hand, Bate hasn't been told officially, although he readily admits he has heard the story.

"Patterson's remarks could have been misinterpreted," he suggested. "Joe was a little hot at the time. He had had a disagreement with an official earlier and, when the decision was announced cancelling the rest of the series—"they never could have it anyway — he just spouted off in the heat of the day."

Bate said he had nothing to do with any decisions made by the team. They were made by the players. The club had been asked if it could stay over to complete the series, but this was impossible because of travel commitments. "Personally, I think I might have stayed," said Bate. "But then I've wanted this for a long time. But it was the club's decision."

Bate also said he was certain in his own mind that he had the best club. Make that "Canada had the best club," he said. "You know, I was proud to be a Canadian down there, and proud of the way the team represented the country. I think we had the best-balanced team."

As for Ty Stofflet, the classy U.S. pitcher whom Bates faced three times winning twice, Bate said: "I wouldn't say he was the best pitcher I ever saw. That might not be fair to our own pitchers. But then I couldn't name a better one either."

And really, Bate was impressed with Stofflet. "He had three changes," he enthused; "threw the ball off the side of his hand, all with the same motion, and always over the plate. He continually had the batters off balance."

Bate said the New Zealand organization was fine even if they do things a little different than we would here. They are great for speeches and functions, but we cut down on those right at the start, attending only two officially, plus a small function at Napier, which is Victoria's sister city."

"The Victoria fans who made the trip, were great," he added, even if they were a little annoyed when the tournament couldn't be completed. "But that wasn't the fault of the host country. The weather that last day was awful. As a matter of fact the last game Bates played against the U.S. was in the rain and conditions weren't good.

The umpiring would have been better, Bate suggested, if tournament officials would have allowed American and Canadians to officiate at all games. "But when we played the U.S., we couldn't have Americans or Canadians; we got umpires from the lesser countries and I honestly believe that some of them had never seen pitching like they saw from Davè Ruthowsky, Stan Kern, Stofflet or Pete Landers.

"We had some bad calls,' he said. "But the Americans got some terrible calls. So it left a lot to be desired and it would have been a much better tournament with more capable officials."

Actually the awards banquet was being held before the official decision to cancel the remaining playoff games was made, it was revealed. The committee was hoping against hope that the weather might clear and a true champion be decided. But no such luck and Bates didn't get their medals either. With three teams winning there weren't enough to go around and all will be distributed later.

Bate said the New Zealand team executive naturally was pleased to be included in the title picture. But they also appreciated the spot the Bates were in, having won the round-robin part of the competition, then losing a 1-0 decision to the U.S. in the playoff opener and not getting another chance. "And one of them told me," Bate said, "that they were unhappy for us."

So, it's all over, and who knows who would have won if the games had been played; and in all fairness, "what else could the executive do?" as Herb Bate himself said.

As to next season, Bate said he would like to reorganize the club and have it registered under the Societies Act. "And sure, I guess I'll shoot for another world outright," Bate laughed. "If it doesn't take me as long as it did to get my first Canadian."

That was five years and, as the world is played every four years, Herb wasn't sure if he could wait. Rather he said he would settle for his next chance at Seattle in 1980.

"I'm pretty proud of this group, you know," he said. "To me they're the best."

And I think the city should agree, Herb. It was a job well done. By the club. And you.

P.S.: Hey! And why not invite the U.S. team up here for a series. Wouldn't that be a gasser?

Roy's Time 20th Best

Automobile racing fans will be able to see Roy Smith of Victoria drive on television Sunday afternoon.

Smith will pilot a 1975 Chevelle Laguna owned by Victoria's Dick Midgley in the 18th annual Daytona 500 stock car race in Florida.

The 500-mile event, top race for NASCAR stock cars, will be televised on Channel 4 starting at 1 p.m. Victoria time.

Smith, a top campaigner locally in both stock cars and open-wheeled super modifieds, logged the 10th fastest time in Monday's qualifying trials and has the 20th best time among the 40 cars that will be in Sunday's starting grid.

ROY SMITH
. . . car running well

He averaged 177.83 miles an hour Monday after spending the weekend driving the track, improving every time out.

Smith now will drive in one of two 125-mile qualifying races Thursday which will determine final placings for Sunday's event on the 2½-mile circuit.

His time Monday was just over 10 miles slower than that of A. J. Foyt, who requalified after his time was wiped out Sunday because he used illegal fuel equipment.

Smith's crew in Daytona includes Midgley, Ted McKenzie, John Biggs and Andy Young, all of Victoria.

Foyt had been disqualified earlier for using illegal equipment as had Darrell Waltrip and Dave Marcus. Waltrip requalified Monday at 186.619 and Marcus at 186.548.

The front row of Ramo Stott and Terry Ryan was confirmed. Stott was elevated to the pole position after the disqualification. Ryan had to undergo a clearance check on his car.

There were illegal fuel pressure assist systems on the cars of Foyt and Waltrip and a trick radiator flap on Marcis' machine that improved aerodynamics significantly.

MENTAL, PHYSICAL TEST FOR COUGARS

Victoria Cougars will have a bit of a mental as well as a physical obstacle to overcome tonight while facing New Westminster Bruins in a Western Canada Hockey League game at 8 in the Memorial Arena.

Bruins, who will be making their final regular-season appearance in Victoria, have the upper hand in a 6-1-1 record against Cats so far this season and are currently riding a four-game winning streak.

The defending Memorial Cup champions have outscored their opponents 44-2 during those four games.

And the Cougars, to make matters worse, are hurting.

Team captain Jim Gustafson was x-rayed Monday and his shoulder injury, suffered here Saturday against Medicine Hat Tigers, was confirmed as a dislocation. He will be out of action for one month to six weeks. Another forward, Archie Henderson, is still sitting out a suspension, leaving the Cougars with only 16 players.

DECISION TODAY?

NEW YORK (CP) — National League owners finally may be able to decide today whether to let the Giants move to Toronto from San Francisco.

Although an injunction keeping the Giants in California was still in force late Monday night, Giants' lawyer Richard Murray said he expected a ruling from the judge today.

President Chub Feeney recessed a league meeting Monday to 2 p.m. EST today after receiving word from San Francisco that a decision by Superior Court Judge John Benson "is imminent."

The Giants reported that neither Robert Short, former owner of Texas Rangers, nor San Francisco businessman Robert Lurie had been able to match the Canadian bid.

Runners Trim Parkland

Victoria Tigers padded their unbeaten streak at 11 games this season by grabbing a 24-9 half time lead and then easing to a 39-28 decision over visiting Esquimalt during Greater Victoria High School Girls' Basketball League action Monday night.

In other games, Reynolds Roadrunners boosted their record to 8-1 by beating host Parkland 51-30; Mt. Douglas topped visiting Spectrum 58-23 and Claremont defeated visiting Dunsmuir, 75-48.

Sandy Lewis scored 11 points and Leslie Godfrey added 10 for Tigers, who lead Division "A," while Sharon Doherty scored 10 points for Esquimalt.

Roadrunners, the Division "B" leaders, were led by a 23-point effort from Tracy McAra while Angela Sampson fired 12 points for winless Parkland.

Bev Gait and Peggy McManaman scored 10 points each to spark Mt. Douglas but none of the Spectrum players managed to hit double figures.

Deb Perry and Liz Fleming scored 24 and 20 points, respectively, for Claremont and Marion Wilson sank 17 points in a losing cause for Dunsmuir.

MARK FALLS

WARSAW (AP) — Tadeusz Slusarski of Poland broke the world amateur pole vault record with a leap of 18 feet, three inches during an international meet, the Polish news agency TTVV has reported.

He bettered by three-quarters of an inch the record set by American Dan Ripley last week in Los Angeles.

U.S. Nips Finland In Hockey Clash

INNSBRUCK (CP) — A pair of goals by Steve Jensen including a crucial one on a power play in the third period gave the United States a 5-4 victory over Finland in the Olympic hockey championship tournament today.

Pair of Golds

EDMONTON — Tom Griffin of the University of Victoria captured two gold medals during the University of Alberta Golden Bear indoor invitational track and field meet.

Griffin placed first in the 1,500 metres with a time of three minutes, 32.2 seconds, won the 800 metres in 1:52.8 and raced with the 4x400-metre relay team which included Gavin Smart, Al Weicker and Robert Dolan to capture a bronze medal in 3:26.3.

Weicker won a silver in the 800 with a 1:53.8 clocking.

Lindsay Jack emerged as the outstanding woman UVic athlete with a second-place finish in the high jump and shot put as well as a victory in the long jump. Ulla Hanson topped the 800 metre women's event with a time of 2:14.3.

Islanders Third

QUESNEL, (CP) — Defending provincial champion Marian Radcliffe of Kelowna suffered her first defeat Monday in the British Columbia-Yukon Women's Curling Association championships.

The Kelowna rink was upset, 7-3, in the sixth draw by the Joy Frechette rink of Kitimat, which has a 3-3 record.

Mrs. Radcliffe was to meet Lindsay Davie of North Vancouver later Monday.

Mrs. Davie had a 4-1 win-loss record, after whipping winless Heaher Klassen of Mayo, Y.T., 9-1, in the sixth draw.

The Karin Kaese quartet of Nanaimo and the Merle Walters foursome of Abbotsford remained in a tie for third place with 3-2 records.

In other sixth-round play, Mrs. Kaese downed the April Hall rink of Trail, 9-7, while Mrs. Walters edged Bobbie Wallace of Vancouver, 8-7.

The nine-rink, round-robin competition continues until tonight.

She Can't Run Without It

LONDON (Reuter) — Jenny Bazeley thought the players were "a bit soft with me" when she became the first woman in Britain to referee an all-male soccer match Saturday.

Mrs. Bazeley, 24, was in charge of a minor league match in South London between Croydon Old Boys and Saints Athletic.

She asserted her authority before the match when she warned the players: "Any bad language and you're off." She did not have to carry out her threat and said: "I enjoyed it very much."

Both captains complimented her on her performance, even David Connell of Croydon Old Boys, whose team lost 2-1.

Finally Mrs. Bazeley stressed she is no ardent feminist. "I don't burn my bra —I can't run without it."

Darryl's Spree Obscured Johnny's Move Past Alex

MONTREAL (CP) — Statistics released by the National Hockey League Monday show that more individual records were attained in a game at Toronto last Saturday night than in any other game in league history.

In the game the Maple Leafs put a devastating halt to a seven-game Boston winning streak by defeating the Bruins 11-4.

What normally should have presented the opportunity for a tribute to John Bucyk, Boston's veteran left winger, was reduced to passing mention when Toronto centre Darryl Sittler went on a scoring rampage unequalled in the 13,528 regular season games played in the league since it was formed in 1917.

Whily Bucyk was moving past Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings into second place in the all-time list of career point scorers, Sittler was setting the record for most points by a player in a game and tying two other marks.

The Toronto captain tied the modern-era mark of six goals in one game and had four assists for an incredible 10 points. In the second period, Sittler scored three goals and added two assists, his five points tying the record for most points in a period.

The fact that Bucyk's achievement did not receive the immediate prominence it deserved is not surprising when the career of the 40-year-old native of Edmonton is investigated.

Bucyk has quietly moved into second place in points with 1,523 goals, the sixth-highest career total in league history, and 760 assists, fourth-highest career total, and 1,283 points. Yet in 20 seasons prior to this one, Bucyk was named to only one first allstar team (1970-71) and one second all-star squad (1967-68).

Even when fans start listing the players who have scored 50 or more goals in a season, they often forget he had 51 in 1970-71.

When this season began and it was noted that Bucyk was nearing Delvecchio's mark, some observers made a point of noting the Boston veteran was playing in the post-expansion era.

But 573 of Bucyk's points were earned in pre-1967 expansion days and 431 of those points were gained when Boston failed to make the playoffs for eight straight seasons.

Only one other player in the 59-year history of the NHL has had more points than Bucyk. That is Gordie Howe, who in 25 seasons at right wing with the Wings, scored 786 goals, 1,023 assists and 1,809 points in 1,687 regular-season games.

Some other achievements by Bucyk: 15 20-or-more goal seasons and at least 24 goals in each of his last nine campaigns; 50 or more points in 17 seasons, including the last nine; six 30-goal seasons; two 40-goal seasons; and his 51-goal season; 113 penalty minutes in the last 11 seasons; the Lady Byng Trophy twice—1970-71 and 1973-74; and in 73 Stanley Cup playoff games in the last eight seasons he scored 36 goals, 45 assists for 81 points.

The 10 points by Sittler vaulted him into 10th place in the individual scoring race with 64 points, including 27 goals. He trails the leader—right winger Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens—by 18 points.

Lafleur has 35 goals and 82 points, and a three-point lead over centre Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers, whose 54 assists lead the league. Leading goal scorer is right winger Reg Leach of the Flyers with 36, one more than Lafleur and Jean Pronovost of Pittsburgh Penguins.

So far this season Bucyk has 28 goals and 30 assists, good for 14th place.

MICKEY REDMOND

Redmond Suspended, Put on Waiver List

DETROIT (AP) — Saying he was tired of Mickey Redmond's shenanigans, general manager Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings suspended the 28-year-old right winger Monday and placed him on waivers.

Delvecchio took the action after Redmond had missed 10 games with the National Hockey League team.

Redmond, who twice scored 50 goals in a season, complained he was suffering pain following major back surgery last year. A report from the Mayo Clinic, where Redmond had gone for a physical examination, said he was suffering from nerve damage.

"We've gone long enough with him," Delvecchio said. "He's no good to us.

"He doesn't want to play in Detroit. Otherwise, he'd be here."

Redmond was supposed to be at Olympia Stadium early Monday morning but never showed up.

trailer was destroyed and the worry about," Delvecchio said. "I can't fool around with just one guy any longer."

Redmond, who was suspended without pay, is available to any NHL team willing to pay the $30,000 waiver price. Redmond still had 2½ years left on his contract.

Redmond's high salary may be a major stumbling block to his getting picked up by another team. His contract calls for $250,000 this season, $275,000 the next and $300,000 the following year.

"His contract calls for too much money for the type of hockey player he is," said Sid Abel, general manager of Kansas City Scouts.

"All I hoped to do was get back and help the Red Wings but now I see that Mr. Delvecchio doesn't want me back," Redmord said before Delvecchio announced the suspension.

HOWE STILL COLLECTING

TORONTO (CP) — For a man who was going to play only one game this season, Gordie Howe has managed a remarkable collection of points.

The 48-year-old veteran, who had planned to play only the first game of the World Hockey Association season before finally retiring to his position as president of Houston Aeros, has 14 goals and 42 assists this season.

Howe decided that the opening game of this season would not be his swan song and his two goals and seven assists last week pushed him into the top 25 scorers in the league.

Howe's total of 56 points is only two behind Houston's leading scorer, Larry Lund, who has 18 goals, 40 assists.

Marc Tardif of Quebec Nordiques continues to lead the league scoring parade with 47 goals and 50 assists.

First Pro Win

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Jan Stephenson blasted out of an 18th-hole sand trap to within 10 feet of the cup Sunday and two putted to win her first professional golf title with a 54-hole total of 218, two over par.

Miss Stephenson's effort on the final hole gave her a four-over-par 76 for the day and a one-stroke victory over Judy Meister and Sandra Haynie in the Ladies Professional Golf Association event. She collected $8,500 for the win.

Suspended Goalie 'Let Guys Down'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gary Smith, goaltender for the Vancouver Canucks, was suspended indefinitely Monday for deserting the National Hockey League club during Sunday's 7-3 loss to Pittsburgh Penguins.

Phil Maloney, general manager and coach of the Canucks, announced the suspension, "pending the determination of his (Smith's) breach of contract."

Maloney said Smith was informed of the suspension through his agent, Ed McMullin, who was in Los Angeles on business Monday.

Smith did not appear at the Pacific Coliseum, home ground of the Canucks, for a morning practice Monday and was not available for comment.

Maloney said Smith will not be paid for the duration of the suspension.

Smith was pulled from the net by Maloney at 11:42 of the second period Sunday. Smith had allowed five goals.

Smith didn't skate to the bench when replaced by reserve goalie Ken Lockett. Instead, he went directly to the dressing room, changed and left the rink before the end of the period.

Maloney said Smith let the team down.

"Gary Smith may have allegedly breached his contract but he also let a few guys down by taking off yesterday. He left us with our pants down when he should have been sitting at the end of the bench."

Bucks Take Lead

Victoria Western Homes Buckaroos grabbed a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five Big Six Hockey League playoff semi-final series by edging Lake Cowichan Lakers 3-2 Monday night at Memorial Arena.

Steve Kishkan made 28 saves in the Buckaroo goal while Brad Rix blocked 26 shots for Lakers.

The other series between league-champion London Boxing Club and James Bay Athletic Association Canadians continues this week with the second game set for 9 p.m. Wednesday at Juan de Fuca Arena and the third scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Thursday at Pearkes Arena.

Mayor Urges Secession on CNR Rates

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Mayor Harold Moffat said Monday that British Columbia and possibly other western provinces should secede from Canada because of preposterous rail freight rates.

Moffat said in an interview that Canadian National Railways freight rates for goods shipped from eastern Canada are "killing the small businessman."

"We are slaves to Ontario and Quebec. We should ask what provinces want to come and which want to stay and put up a barrier and secede.

"The freight rates are just preposterous. When you look at what B.C. and Alberta contribute to Canada in taxes it is just phenomenal," he said.

Moffat said the CNR has lost contact with the people and was not improving services.

"Instead of building a better railroad and a faster railroad and improving service, they have just left everything alone," he said.

Moffat said it is cheaper for some businessmen to order goods from the United States than from eastern Canada.

"We should just take over the railroad where it goes west from the Rockies and run it into the States" he said.

But Premier Bennett was quick to veto the suggestion today saying simply: "I'm a Canadian."

"There are problems with Canada that can be worked out but leaving won't solve our problems," he said.

Discussions about disparities suffered in the west are taking place between provincial and federal ministers, he said, but he would not disclose whether those problems would be discussed at this meeting Wednesday evening with Prime Minister Trudeau.

"Mayor Moffat has always been colorful and expresses his concern in a colorful way," said Bennett.

b.c. briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal regional expansion department announced a federal-provincial $10 million program Monday to improve highways in northern British Columbia.

The governments each will provide $5 million to improve Highway 97 between Prince George and Dawson Creek and Highway 37 between Stewart and Watson Lake and to build a road linking Highway 37 and Highway 16 between Kiitwanga and Meziadin Junction.

PEACHLAND (CP) — Three persons filed nomination papers for the mayors' position here when nominations closed Monday.

Former mayor Harold Thwaite, Bernice Fletcher, and alderman Jeff Williamson are contesting the seat.

Mrs. Fletcher was declared elected by 61 votes after the Nov. 15, municipal election but a re-count declared Thwaite had polled more votes. A county court judge ruled there had been irregularities and ordered a new election.

COURTENAY (CP) — James Larade, 22, of Courtenay pleaded guilty Monday to three counts of impaired driving and driving while his licence was suspended. He was sentenced to six months. Judge Lance Heard said Larade's record was atrocious and also took away his licence for two years.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Operations at Rayonier Canada Ltd's Woodfibre pulp mill on Howe Sound were returning to normal Monday after a 48-hour walkout by workers protesting an employee's suspension.

Mill Manager Stan Smart said it would be late Monday before the plant would again be ready for pulp-making. He added that any further labor problems could mean another immediate shutdown.

The walkout, which shut down pulp production but did not affect wood chip production, occurred after a power house employee was suspended for not coming to work. The power house staff had been booking off sick to protest what it said was lack of progress in resolving a dispute over paying travel time on the Howe Sound ferry to the mill.

CLARESHOLM, Alta. (CP) — Two Vancouver residents were charged during the weekend with non-capital murder in the death last month of an 82-year-old resident of this southern Alberta community.

Claresholm RCMP said Peter Ansilmi Tolonen, 26, and Jocellyn Louise Manzini, 20, were charged after being questioned in connection with the death of Hans Peter Johnson, whose battered body was found Jan. 18 in the kitchen of his home.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver School Board operating budget for 1976, released Monday, was set at $98.2 million, 16.4 per cent more than the 1975 budget.

INDIANS CALL OFF GAS ROADBLOCKS

Slave Indians near Fort Nelson won't proceed with roadblocks which would have stopped natural gas production from wells on their reserve.

After a two-hour meeting with provincial government officials here Monday, Indian spokesman Chief Harry Dickie said he concluded the disagreement over rights to the gas wells was a matter between the federal and provincial governments.

Forests and Mines Minister Tom Waterland said the province will meet shortly with federal Indian Affairs Minister Jed Buchanan to discuss the issue.

Dickie said he was pleased with the arrangement and said the Indians would not be part of the discussions.

The "amicable" meeting averted threats of roadblocks to cut off access to two wells operated by Pacific Petroleum Ltd. which produces 38 million feet of gas daily. It would also block the road to the giant Yoyo gas field which produces about a quarter of B.C.'s supply.

The two Pacific wells are on the Indians's reserve and the band argues it has rights to all natural resources within their land.

The former ND government reached an agreement with the band before the provincial election to place profits derived from the wells in a trust for the Indians pending a negotiated settlement of the dispute.

Player Remanded

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Hockey player Archie Henderson was remanded without plea to March 1 when he appeared in provincial court Monday on an assault charge laid as the result of an incident during a hockey game.

Henderson, of the Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada Hockey League, is charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Larry Lestander of Kamloops Chiefs was sent to hospital suffering from a concussion following an incident during a Victoria-Kamloops game here Jan. 25.

Henderson's lawyer, Dennis Coats, told the court Monday, he wants time to discuss the case with the crown and with Henderon's family in Calgary.

Job for Farquhar

The appointment is for a one-year term expiring Jan. 31, 1977.

Also appointed to the college council for one year is retired bank manager Bruce Winsby, of Victoria.

National Aquarium

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Public Aquarium is destined to become Canada's first national aquarium, federal Fisheries Minister Romeo Leblanc said Monday.

Leblanc made the statement in announcing a $50,000 grant from the National Museums of Canada for the aquarium's new gallery dedicated to cetaceans—whales, dolphins and porpoises.

The aquarium already has spent $70,000 on the gallery.

Leblanc said details still have to be worked out, but the Stanley Park Aquarium will become a national facility.

YOUNG DRIVERS BIGGEST RISKS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Insurance Corp. of British Columbia is concerned about an apparent relationship between driver demerit points and the incidence of accidents, Norman Bortnick, the crown corporation's general manager, said Monday.

Bortnick said ICBC statistics indicate that the incidence of accidents is twice as high in the 20-and-under age category as it is in the 31-to-40 age group.

Statistics released Monday by ICBC show that 45 per cent of male drivers under 25 have demerit points of some kind on their driver's licences and of those with points, 24 per cent have 10 points or more. The corporation said this compares with 18 per cent in the over 25 male group with points and with 15 per cent of that group having 10 points or more.

Spread of Beef All Over Road

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — A $50,000 load of beef was scattered over the Upper Levels Highway Monday when a refrigerator semi-trailer truck overturned on a curve just east of Horseshoe Bay.

Police said the sides of beef hanging on hooks in the trailer swung as the truck took the curve and the weight shift toppled the trailer.

The driver, Kenneth L. Woods, 24, of White Rock, was uninjured but the truck

"I've got 19 other players to beef condemned for human consumption, police said.

TOWN TALK

Really, city aldermen are so unimaginative at times it makes one despair.

Here they are, for instance, worrying quite needlessly over introducing a curbside garbage collection system, because some elderly residents may not be able to manhandle (oops, personhandle) the proposed cans-on-wheels.

Gentlepersons, the answer is quite obvious. All you have to do is fit the things with small gas or battery-powered motors, then give the senior citizens a crash trash-driving course.

We bet some of our sporty oldsters would have a ball. Who knows, it might lead to our own Garbage Grand Prix in Beacon Hill Park?

Paf McGeer is getting almost as much ink in the classified ad section as on the front page.

McGeer Specials are appearing regularly in the Cars for Sale section which has expanded greatly since the Socreds coughed up their stunning car insurance premiums.

Here's One McGear, says one ad as the car owner tries to unload his wheels rather than pay premiums higher than the value of the car.

McGeer Sacrifice, says another.

Even Premier Bennett gets a prod: Thanks to Bill, says the owner of an old Caddy up for grabs.

And the bumper stickers aren't too polite. More and more Stick It in Your Ear, McGeer ones are appearing.

One car dealer advertises: Free licence and insurance if you're over 80 and you bring your parents.

MILES
. . . winning and losing

First it was the wives; now it's the husbands.

Central Saanich police are finding it difficult to please residents of Tomlinson Road, quiet dead-end street.

In response to complaints about speeders from two or three mothers, police increased their patrols and in four days nabbed eight motorists, all residents driving to and from their homes.

Well that pleased the two or three complainers but now, says Chief Bob Miles, "we've eight others mad at us.

And more on the McGrinding of McGeers — you wouldn't expect someone to burst into song upon receiving their ICBC increase but Cameron Malloy of Vancouver did.

Malloy, 26, was just another country-rock minstrel until 10 days ago when he recorded ICBC Blues. The tune is getting big play on the southwest's rock airwaves since CKLG played it first. A sample of the lyrics:

"You're gonna do it to the people all right,
Come next election night,
You come beggin' for votes at my front door,
I'm going to kick your ass around the block for sure."

The chorus to be sung at the end of each verse is:

"I got them low-down confusin'-me-Social-Credits-screwin-me-ICBC Blues."

Premier Bennett's wife hasn't done any public singing like Margaret Trudeau but in private Bennett said he isn't exactly a star. "My wife's so bad that when she used to sing the kids to sleep, they used to ask her to stop," Bennett says.

The off-the-cuff remark came at the start of a press conference when a reporter asked if Bennett was practising his French to meet Prime Minister Trudeau this week.

Bennett replied: "Oh yeah . . . I don't sing though.

Post office officials are scratching their heads over apparent discrepancies in the new overseas parcel rates that went into effect in January, especially those for parcels going to Britain and France.

Information officer Buz Sawyer says they're based on international rates and take routing into consideration. Makes sense, so far.

As an example, parcels up to two pounds cost $2.75 to go to France and $1.80 to Britain. As the weight goes up, however, the picture changes until the sender is paying $6.30 to send a parcel to France and $7.30 for the same weight parcel to Britain.

Although nobody's got close enough to know for sure, it's likely an escaper from a henhouse Don and Pat Moss kept in their backyard at 2636 Roseberry.

Shortly before the Mosses moved in mid-December they discovered their six egg-laying prisoners had flown the coop. They managed to find five foraging in a neighbor's garden. They figured the sixth must have ended up in someone's pot. But no, the chicken lives, or so it seems.

For the past four or five weeks it has made several startling appearances, much to the amusement of people waiting at the bus stop at the corner.

Recently it's got bolder. According to a Town Talk spy it has started to venture on to the road. Its appearance in the middle of the street the other day brought traffic to a halt as it strutted cockily past.

An elderly man walking on the sidewalk stopped to watch the spectacle. He looked bemused but quizzical, no doubt forming in his mind the inevitable question: Why did the chicken cross . . . ?

Church Fights Rec Bar

Recreation and alcohol do not mix, the congregation of Oak Bay United Church has told Oak Bay council.

The 662-member congregation has sent a resolution to council urging that the bar in the municipality's new recreation centre be axed.

The resolution, passed at the congregation's annual meeting, Jan. 31, says that many people find it objectionable to mingle with others who are drinking alcoholic beverages and that those people have as much right to relax in comfort in the community centre as those who are drinking.

The non-drinkers should not have to be embarrassed by being around drinkers, the resolution says, and young people using the centre will have to stand around and "maybe get into mischief or worse" while they wait for their drinking parents.

"Recreation and alcohol lead to opposite ends and are not consistent in a youth recreation centre."

PROVINCE TURNS DEAF EAR

100 Layoffs Face Jubilee

Victoria Times
TUESDAY FEBRUARY 10, 1976 17
SECOND SECTION

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

Royal Jubilee Hospital, faced with a $1.3 million operating deficit last year and no sign of help from the provincial government, may have to lay off 100 or more employees.

Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director, said today almost all major hospitals in the province are in the same money bind in varying degrees and plan a joint plea to Health Minister Bob McClelland.

He said Jubilee has taken advantage of staff attrition since last fall to trim the payroll "and we're economizing in every area we can think of short of lay-offs."

But unless substantially more money can be made available by the province this year the hospital faces a similar operating deficit, he said.

To avoid that, a staff reduction of 100 or more by attrition or layoffs would be necessary.

Layoffs are "a move of last resort" but the hospital is having to "actively consider it," he said.

Pickles said that in many discussions with provincial officials on the problem, he has been given no reason to be hopeful.

"They simply say the funds are not available to be as generous as they have been in the past."

Jubilee has a current staff of 2,231, including about 400 part-time or casual workers. Operating budget for 1975 was just over $30 million, with about 80 per cent of it being wages.

Contracts with nine unions representing hospital employees end this year and negotiations on all of them are under way.

Pickles said there are two main reasons for last year's operating deficit: improvements in student nurse training which involved hiring more staff for ward work and a difference of opinion with the province over the number of staff required to man the hospital.

In addition there has been inflation affecting the cost of supplies and an ever-increasing public demand for hospital services, he said.

Meanwhile at Victoria General Hospital, it appears last year's operating budget of $17.4 million will be balanced.

John Murray, assistant executive director and comptroller, said today that the current deficit of $241,000 is expected to be covered by the usual year-end adjustments and the hospital should break even on last year's operation.

He said the hospital achieved a balanced budget by not expanding any programs last year and hiring very few staff and then only when clearly justified by the workload. But none of the hospital's programs had to be trimmed either, he said.

New Rule on Student Trips

A new regulation has been adopted by the Greater Victoria school board administration to cover teachers' leave for participation in athletic, cultural and service trips.

Presentation of the regulation follows confusion over financing of teachers' fares and accommodations on an overseas trip organized at Esquimalt Senior Secondary.

An "information" item at Monday's instruction administration committee meeting, the regulation outlines procedure for teachers applying for leave.

Teacher's must submit their requests in writing to assistant superintendent of schools Dr. John Wiens and:

"If financial assistance is being provided from sources other than the school district itself, applicants are to indicate clearly the source and amount of such assistance."

The regulation also ensures that requests for leave "must outline the precise nature of the activity, the dates involved and the benefits, both personal and educational . . . It is expected that teachers requesting leave for a school activity be directly involved with the group of students concerned."

Board chairman Bill Ross explained today the regulation — provided to the board for information — is now in effect and can be amended.

There was no discussion at the committee meeting Monday.

Meanwhile, a meeting will be held tonight to resolve concerns about an overseas trip to England for Esquimalt Secondary school students.

Some parents voiced concern when the students planning to go on the trip were asked to "approve or disapprove" of a $10 surcharge to cover the salary of an Oak Bay teacher scheduled to go as a chaperone.

The school board previously had approved the request of Mrs. Morven Morrison for leave from her post at Oak Bay secondary school to accompany the group leaving March 26. But the leave was without pay.

Leave with pay was granted for three Esquimalt secondary teachers to accompany the students as chaperones on the trip, organized by Esquimalt teacher Keith Morrison.

Several students pulled out of the trip, forfeiting a $100 down payment, when the surcharge option was outlined in a letter by Morrison who said he "was not prepared to travel without his wife . . . and we are not in a financial position to suffer such a loss of (her salary.)

HELP REQUESTED FOR QUAKE AREA

Mayor Mike Young today urged all Greater Victoria residents to give generously for the relief for the Guatemalan earthquake victims.

Young told reporters this morning he is concerned that the aftermath of the earthquake is being displaced from the front pages and the public's consciousness because the disaster is so slow to unfold.

He urged all residents to send donations to the Canadian Red Cross for the relief of the victims.

Mrs. Eileen Medley, executive director of the Victoria branch of the Red Cross, who was also at the press conference, received a $50 personal cheque from the mayor.

City Names Delinquents

Legal proceedings to recover unpaid city property taxes continued today following the issue of writs against seven owners on Monday for a total of 10.

Solicitor Jacob de Villiers identified persons and companies to which county court writs were issued today and Monday and said more would follow as efforts to collect from 91 delinquent property-owners intensifies.

City council instructed de Villiers to take action against 128 property-owners with nearly $700,000 owing, but by Friday 37 had responded by paying $179,000.

The solicitor said some individuals had requested more time, and writs against these were being held pending a decision by council whether to grant an extension.

In his inaugural speech last month, Mayor Mike Young expressed concern that unpaid taxes had doubled to nearly $1 million in the past year. Council's instruction to the solicitor followed.

De Villiers said the writs turned over to court officers for service were for:

Aeron Management Ltd., 530-880 Douglas; John Raymond Biggs, auto wrecker, 1020 Topaz; Colin Moses Butts, mechanic, and Clifford Gerald Coad, brake specialist, 1840 Blanshard; Raymond Earl Cranston, veterinarian, 2991 Douglas; Cloverdale Investments Ltd., 20-432 Douglas; Cascade Pacific Financial Corp., 627 Main, Vancouver; Arctic Installations Victoria Ltd., 4537 Northridge;

Parking Ban Cools Bikeway Protests

Henderson Road residents went home happy Monday night after a 2½-hour meeting of Oak Bay's streets and traffic committee.

No action was taken on a suggested bikeway path along one side of the road.

But parking will be banned on the east side between 8 and 10 a.m. and on the west side between 3 and 5 p.m. Monday to Friday.

The ban, which was applauded by residents, will go into effect after council has acted on the committee's recommendation. The next council meeting is Feb. 16.

The proposal was hailed by regional bikeway adviser Derek Wild as a good move by Oak Bay.

He said the bikeway study revealed extremely heavy bicycle population along Henderson as well as many cars per hour during the banned periods, so the prohibition will make the situation safer both for motorists and cyclists.

In the sometimes-boisterous meeting which drew an overflow audience of more than 80, Henderson Road residents again made plain their opposition to construction of a bike-path on the boulevard.

A number of speakers found themselves interrupted by comments or groans.

One man turned in anger on one interrupter and said "who was that swine who had to stick his mouth out while I was speaking. Shut up while I'm talking."

But the Henderson Road residents among the audience responded with applause when committee chairman Ald. Isabel Craig made the no-parking suggestion.

"The parking ban will make it easier for all (bicycles, pedestrians and motor vehicles) to live together," she said.

Insp. Jack Groves of Oak Bay police said the parking ban would give more space to cyclists and motorists.

In response to one comment criticizing bikes without lights, he said the police are working on the problem.

But, he said, police get "very little co-operation from parents" some of whom say "haven't you got anything better to do" than bring to their attention the lack of lights on their children's bikes.

Ald. Doug Watts said banning parking in rush hours will allow cyclists to "hug the curb more."

Ald. Doug McLelland said conditions on Henderson Road will be improved. He emphasized there will be no special signs or painted lines for bikes, "just improved conditions for present traffic."

During the meeting, Dr. Hugh Evans, who reiterated residents' opposition to displacement of sidewalks for bikeways, said "we would go wholeheartedly" with the parking ban.

At one point, one resident said "the only thing that was catered to in the past is the car." There was applause, in favor of cars.

That was greeted with applause from the bike supporters.

Watts said there were a number of alternatives for accommodating the planned bikeway from downtown to the university. But consideration of them disappeared when the no-parking proposal was made.

Some of the alternatives, he said, were three-foot bike paths on each side of Henderson Road (greeted by "no way, no way" from the audience), a six-foot path on one side, a green line painted on the street parallel to the curb on one side of the street or both, or adding to the sidewalks to, using one side of the street for bikes and the other for pedestrians.

In the 20 years since polio vaccine became available, the number of cases in the United States of that crippling and sometimes fatal disease has fallen from a peak of 58,000 in 1952 to seven in 1974.

The brilliant effectiveness of preventive medicine has rarely been more clearly demonstrated in the annals of the contemporary public health. Indeed it is comparable to the near eradication of smallpox in this country, a devastating disease once widespread and dreaded, now virtually nonexistent, thanks to almost universal vaccination.

But along with the disappearance of the annual national panic which attended the inexorable summer epidemics of infantile paralysis, as it used to be called, there has appeared an ominous forgetfulness and apathy.

Perhaps this is because a new generation of mothers, and even doctors, are too young to have been aware of the anguish of successive waves of crippling and deadly epidemics.

But whatever the cause, the facts are that while in 1963, 84 per cent of all one-to four-year-old children were immunized against polio, in 1973 only 60 per cent were immunized, leaving a pool of 40 per cent of children susceptible to an epidemic.

In New York for example, State Health Commissioner Robert P. Whalen estimates that 60,000 children of the 300,000 in the first grade have not only not been immunized against polio, they have not been vaccinated against measles or German measles.

Worse still, they have not been immunized against diphtheria, an old time killer of children. A vaccine against it is traditionally included in the standard, three-way, so-called DTP shots, along with vaccines against tetanus (lockjaw) and pertussis (whooping cough).

In some school districts it is estimated that less than half of the entering class have been immunized.

As for pre-school children, it is estimated that the situation is as bad, if not worse. According to the best public health estimates, hardly half of the pre-school children in this country are immunized against German measles, and fewer than 75 per cent are protected against lockjaw, diphtheria and whooping cough.

With an estimated 40 per cent or more without protection against polio, the prospect looms of a tragic awakening.

In all but nine states there are regulations requiring one sort or another of pre-school immunization, but the rules vary from one state to another and enforcement is apparently less than vigorous.

If there are small children in your household, check their vaccination records today, and consult your doctor to be sure that everything is being done that should be done.

Disease Provides Historic Insights

SASKATOON (CP) — A University of Saskatchewan professor says changes in disease patterns can yield interesting insights into social history.

Geoffrey Bilson of the history department said the study of malaria in the Ottawa Valley is a case in point. The disease was once a problem but it subsequently disappeared.

Its disappearance was not because of direct efforts to control it but occurred as marshes were drained for agricultural purposes and screens became common to prevent mosquitoes from invading homes.

He said the spread of cholera throws light on the organization of cities and urban planning, public health policy, problems of dealing with mass movements of people and the psychology of persons in crisis.

Cholera spread from India through the Middle East and Russia to Western Europe and Britain early in the 19th century. In 1832, immigrants from Ireland carried it to Quebec, killing thousands of persons in Upper and Lower Canada.

The disease returned in 1834 and again in the 1840s, 1850s and 1860s, with the last major outbreak in 1871.

The disease terrified persons, partly because those who died usually suffered horribly and partly because the authorities failed to understand how it spread or how it could be controlled, said Bilson.

It was not until the late 19th century that the organism carrying the disease was isolated and contaminated water and food were seen to be responsible for its spread. Until then, many doctors attributed it to dirty air or rotting manure in the streets and the common treatment was bloodletting and the administration of a mercury derivation and opium.

The treatment could cause harm and "the patient suffered as much from the knowledge of the doctor as from his ignorance and a Canadian who kept out of the doctor's hands was better off than one who fell into them."

As doctors gradually realized that cholera was a contagious disease, attempts were undertaken to quarantine sufferers to prevent its spread.

Indian Love Call

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man who's in love with a beautiful, 28-year-old divorcee. I want to marry her, but she keeps wanting more time to think it over.

In the meantime, she's seeing another man, and I'm afraid he has the edge on me. You see, he's part Kickapoo Indian, and I hear Indians are superior to the white man when it comes to lovemaking. Closely guarded tribal secrets on how to satisfy a woman are passed down from father to son. If there is any truth to that, I'm willing to pay whatever is necessary to find out.

Let me say that I was married for four years, and never had any complaints from my wife, but if Indians are better lovers than white men, I would like to find out why.

Maybe your readers can help. Thank you. — ED IN EAST ILLINOIS.

DEAR ED: I can offer two suggestions: Try the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the American Indian Movement.

DEAR ABBY: With reference to that ding-a-ling who is seriously considered suing his parents for $100,000 for having had him circumcised as an infant — a "barbaric surgery, an assault on his person, which permanently maimed and disfigured him." In my opinion, he was circumcised at the wrong end. — YIDDISH MAMA: SILVER SPRINGS, MD.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old nurse who has been widowed for 15 years.

In the line of duty, I took care of a very attractive well-to-do widower, age 59. When he left the hospital, he asked if he could see me again so we could get better acquainted. I agreed.

It took him nearly six months to call me, after which we started dating. I was on cloud eight! We've been going out for over a year now, and he proposed marriage.

My problem is that he admits that he is still seeing several other women and says that until he has a definite answer from me he will continue to date others.

Abby, this has turned me off on him and made me skeptical of his so-called marriage proposal. I am losing my respect for him. If a man thinks enough of a woman to want to marry her, why would he want to date other women?

How can I say yes tonight when I know he had another woman in his arms last night? — FRUSTRATED AT 50.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: My guess is that he is trying to maneuver you into an early decision. If you want to marry him, say yes. And until you do, he's a free agent.

"Let's Unpollute" ("A l'assaut de la pollution") is a delightful 32-page project booklet for elementary school children. It contains simple pollution-oriented puzzles and space for the youngsters to draw their own pictures. In addition, there are illustrations for colouring with crayons.

Words that may be new to the child, have been underlined so that a teacher or parent knows which need to be explained.

The booklet offers suggestions and poses questions which will make the youngster reflect how he can protect his environment from further pollution.

In addition, the booklet lists steps the youngster can take to control pollution. For instance, he should not allow anybody to pour cooking fat or chemicals down the drain. He should remind adults to apply pesticides and herbicides only in the amount recommended by the manufacturers. He can also see to it that no member of his family disposes of garbage or sewage in streams, rivers or lakes.

Students are also encouraged to combat air and noise pollution and become aware of the many things that pollute our land.

New Chairman

Charles Goodman of 1519 Winchester is the new chairman of Saanich's 12-member Advisory Planning Commission.

Goodman, who has run unsuccessfully for alderman twice, has served on the commission for two years, the last year as vice-chairman.

Juvenile Crime Act Changes Strongly Rapped

WINNIPEG (CP) — Children between the ages of nine and 13 are responsible for a great deal of crime in Winnipeg and the situation will only deteriorate if proposed changes to the Juvenile Delinquents Act are adopted, inspector Paul Johnson of the Winnipeg Police department says.

Johnson was one of a group of law enforcement officers and legal officials who strongly criticized the proposed Young Persons in Conflict with the Law Act, the federal government's second attempt to replace the 68-year-old Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Johnson said juveniles who regularly are arrested for murder, trafficking in narcotics and other serious crimes should be dealt with firmly.

"It's ludicrous to think that young people can rob and kill with impunity because of enlightened law," he said, adding the amendments would only "breed disrespect for the law."

Judge Ray Harris, who hears juvenile cases in Winnipeg, said the federal committee members who drew up the proposals "not only have taken a step backwards, in my opinion they have run backwards, very quickly."

He said the proposed act is not designed to reduce the involvement of youngsters in crime but is "designed to minimize the importance of crime against property and and people.

"I view it as being nothing more than a mini-bill of rights for young people who are in conflict with the law," he told the seminar organized by the Manitoba Criminology Society.

The proposals, including one that the age of criminal responsibility be raised from seven to 14 years of age, were also criticized by members of the attorney-general's department.

Dan Prefontaine, a policy planning official of the federal solicitor-general's department, said consultation with various groups is expected to end by May and the committee which originally drafted the proposals will study the criticisms before making its final report.

He said legislation will probably be before parliament this fall.

No! And with prices what they are today, this may well be an ideal spring for sprucing up the place with some of grandma's low-cost "homemade household handies". The following formulas are furnished by the Norfolk County Cooperative Extension Service of Walpole, Massachusetts.

Got windows to wash? Any one of these recipes will make them squeaky clean: Either one tablespoon of ammonia or vinegar to one quart of water . . . or two teaspoonsof borax or kerosene in a quart of water . . . or one to two teaspoons of washing soda or trisodium phosphate to one quart of water. (If you're hearty enough to wash windows in freezing weather, add a quarter cup of denatured alcohol to each quart of any of the above solutions.)

To clean an oven, heat the unit to 200 degrees F, turn it off, and place a bowl containing a half cup of ammonia inside. Provide ventilation in the room and let the ammonia stand overnight. Then, in the morning, wash the oven's interior surfaces with hot water and detergent.

And if you want to shine up your furniture with the "latest" lemon-flavored polish, all you have to do is mix together equal parts of lemon juice, denatured alcohol, olive oil, and gum turpentine. Dampen a clean lintless cloth with the solution, apply the polish . . . and then wipe the treated wood with a dry rag.

It's fun to make your own soap from leftover grease and other simple ingredients. For 16 recipes, send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, in care of the Times, 2621 Douglas St, Victoria. Ask for Reprint No. 43, HOW TO MAKE SOAP.

WHEELS

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike:

When cold, my 1972 Chrysler with 400-inch V-8 and 2-barrel carburator idles so high that I'm afraid to put it into gear. When I do shift to drive or reverse with the cold engine racing, the transmission goes in with an awful whomp and I have to keep my foot on the brake to keep the car from leaping ahead or backward. Once warm, the engine idles right down and everything's fine. But that takes about five minutes. I feel the high idle is harming both the engine and trans. What can be done?

REVVING

Dear Rev:

Your 2-barrel carburetor has two idle-adjusting screws — one for cold idle with the choke on and another for warm idle when the choke releases. Apparently the choke idle screw needs backing off. It's the one that rests against the flat plastic cam at the lower left of your carburetor.

Dear Mike:

My 1973 Pontiac Firebird has always had very poor traction on wet, sandy and snowy surfaces. In winter, I lose traction with the least bit of snow. To correct this, I've put sandbags in the trunk over each rear wheel. This hasn't helped traction but has increased bottoming. I'd appreciate any assist you can give me.

SPINNING HELPLESSLY

Dear Spin:

More sand and good snow tires will help. To counter the bottoming install a set of air shocks.

Dear Mike: My 1972 VW 411 with fuel injection ran fine in the East but won't start in New Mexico. I first blamed it on the altitude, but several mechanics say it's not that. I've put in two new batteries plus lots of other parts and money. What's the problem? —GRINDER

Dear Grinder: I suspect the electrical cranking system. Check the starter circuit. Then bypass the resistor to the distributor, and you should have 12 volts to the plus side of the coil. I'll bet you don't.

Dear Mike:

I'm writing you about a lawn mower engine, not a car, but I hope you'll help. The mower runs fine cold but slowly winds down and stops when hot. I can let it cool off, and then she repeats the performance. Plenty of gas, spark and oil. What gives?

PUZZLED

Dear Puz:

Check your compression cold and then again hot. Most likely you're losing compression when hot due to a thinning of oil or poor seating of valves or rings.

Handicapped Artists Join to Earn Living

Many healthy Canadians live on unemployment or welfare. Yet there is a small group of people who have lost the use of their hands now earning a livelihood as artists.

Some paint, holding the brush with their mouth or feet. Others sculpt. Their works can be seen in galleries all over the world, including Ottawa's National Gallery.

Some, like Ontario landscape painter Myron Angus, were born crippled. Others, like renowned Maritime seascape painter Evern Earl Bailly whose paintings hang in the National Gallery in Ottawa, are victims of polio. Still others, such as Mykola Bidniak whose wall murals can be seen in many churches in Canada, were victims of accident or war.

These artists all have two things in common: they are unable to use their hands and they want to earn an honest living, doing the work they know best.

It is difficult to imagine the diligence it takes to create a beautiful mosaic, lifting up and positioning each tile with their feet, or sculpting with the stilo held in their mouths. Yet, these artists work in all mediums — oils, watercolours, ink, mosaics, metal, clay and wood.

To help such artists the world over, Professor Erich Arnulf Stegmann founded the Association Mouth and Foot Painting Artists Worldwide in Liechtenstein in 1956. He lost the use of his hands and arms through polio.

High professional standing and genuine artistic accomplishment are a condition of membership. A panel of art experts (not handicapped persons themselves) carefully screens new applicants and accepts only the best.

The Association now has 52 member artists as well as 76 scholars studying at academies and fine art institutes at the Association's expense.

Members are guaranteed a minimum monthly income of $700 for life even when they can no longer create. As well, artists may receive an annual bonus, reflecting the sales and earnings of the Association.

Canada is well represented in the Association's 29-member countries: Henri Baril and Manfred E. Kijik, Edmonton; Myron Angus, Bracebridge, Ont.; Mykola Nic Bidniak, Toronto; Breen Hogan, Windsor, Ont. and Evern Earl Bailly, Lunenburg, N.S. who at 72 is the oldest member of the Association.

To help members sell their works of art, the Association holds exhibitions all over the world. The last international exhibition was held in Toronto in 1974. Prices are set by the artists and all proceeds go directly to the artists, with no effect on their monthly income.

Blood Pressure Victims Unaware

VANCOUVER (CP) — Half of the estimated 100,000 hypertensives in British Columbia are unaware of their condition, an Ontario heart specialist said here recently.

Dr. Arnold Johnson, a professor in the department of clinical epidemiology and biostatistics at McMaster University in Hamilton told a two-day cardiac symposium sponsored by the B.C. Heart Foundation that in the beginning, high blood pressure produces few symptoms.

Dr. Johnson said that even when people are aware they have high blood pressure it is difficult to get them to take the required medication.

Dr. Walter McDonald of the University of Oregon medical school, explained why.

"Early high blood pressure doesn't make you feel sick, but the pills often do make you sick and you have problems convincing people they should take the pills when it makes them feel worse."

Dr. Johnson said there is strong evidence linking hypertension and cardiovascular disease. The best study on the subject divides people with high blood pressure into two groups. One of which is treated with antihypertensive drugs and the other with a placebo.

The experiment, done by the U.S. Veterans Affairs Adminstration, revealed that the untreated group suffered more strokes and other complications of high blood pressure.

At that point the study was terminated so the untreated groups could get the benefit of the drugs.

But the study did not show an increase in the number of heart attacks in the untreated group, although in the general population people with high blood pressure do have more heart attacks.

He said one conclusion that might be drawn from the contradiction is that heart damage might already have been done when treatment started.

Dr. Johnson said the story illustrates the difficulty of drawing conclusions from statistical studies.

Pitseolak Works On

She's Drawing 'Old Ways'

OTTAWA (CP) — Pitseolak, a prolific Eskimo graphic artist from Cape Dorset, N.W.T., has said she will go on making her characteristic drawings as long as she is well and, "if I can, I'll make them even after I am dead."

Now believed to be well into her 70s, Pitseolak draws with a flair that gives her representation of Eskimo life a joyous cast, despite its hardships.

A major retrospective exhibit of her works will open this week at the Winnipeg Art Gallery. Later it will be borrowed by the Smithsonian Institution in Washington for circulation in the U.S.

Pitseolak was born about 1900 on a remote island in Hudson Strait but spent what she calls "all of my remembered life" on or near Foxe Peninsula, Baffin Island. She knew Cape Dorset before the Hudson's Bay Co. and the white man built there.

As a child she learned Eskimo legends about spirits and shamans, the people with supernatural powers, and her drawings depict them with her vigorous imagination as an artist. She married and had 17 children, five of whom survive.

She moved to Cape Dorset in the early 1950s after her husband, Ashoona, a childhood friend, died while on a hunting trip. Soon after, James Houston, the first government administrator for West Baffin arrived in Cape Dorset. An artist himself, he encouraged Eskimo drawing for prints, and Eskimo soapstone carving.

Strap Ban Urged

CALGARY (CP) — Banning use of the strap against children in school under any circumstances is advocated by Ed Ziegler, psychology department chairman at Yale University and an expert on child abuse.

"If you wish to decrease the incidence of child abuse, make it illegal for school personnel to apply corporal punishment against school children under any circumstance," he advised rural teachers at a Calgary convention.

"Where else in society (but in schools) do we currently find the legally—and socially—sanctioned abuse of children?"

He told the teachers there is an epidemic of violence against children sweeping American schools.

"I feel strongly that no parent should have the right to assign to some other party, such as school personnel and therapists, the right to punish the parent's child physically."

He told teachers they are "vastly under-paid" and reminded them that no matter what various levels of government may believe, the performance of teachers in the classrooms will determine what kind of nation Canada will become.

BLIND TEACHER GETS CHANCE

MARION, Ind. (AP) — Linda Garshwiler said all she wanted was a chance to prove a blind person can be a good school teacher. Now she has that chance.

"I'm just really excited that I have the chance to be in the classroom and prove to everyone that I can do the job," she said.

When she moves in, Miss Garshwiler, 23, will go to work at Justice junior high school here, teaching English literature and grammar to Grades 7 and 8 students.

Miss Garshwiler, backed by the National Federation for the Blind, filed a suit in federal court last year against Marion's school system, claiming she was discriminated against because she can't see.

She applied for an opening and was scheduled for an interview, but that was cancelled when school officials learned she is blind.

She was finally hired after her lawyers and school-board lawyers considered the matter.

"They offered me the job and they paid me the wages I would have earned for the past semester," she said of the out-of-court settlement.

Miss Garshwiler said she has overcome her handicap with teaching methods developed during her student teaching days at Huntington's Crestview junior high school.

She "reads" the textbooks in braille while her students use their eyes. She types lesson plans and uses tape recorders and overhead projectors and a lot of class discussion, she said.

Students, she said, will have to adjust to new teaching methods. She said she expects their co-operation.

H.R.—A Great Canadian

VANCOUVER (CP) — Friends and business associates paid tribute Monday to H. R. MacMillan, British Columbia's legendary lumberman, capitalist and philanthropist.

MacMillan, 90, died Monday of old age at his Shaughnessy home. Funeral service will be held Thursday.

"We have a lot to thank H. R. for," said Mayor Art Phillips, referring to the $3.5 million H. R. MacMillan planetarium.

Douglas Kenny, president of the University of B.C., which received many scholarships, endowments and donations from MacMillan, said the university "has lost one of its greatest friends and benefactors."

"His loss is deeply felt and his name will always be honored on this campus."

Over the past 20 years MacMillan gave "many millions of dollars to UBC, gifts which were notable not just for their size but for their purpose," he added.

Resources Minister Tom Waterland said he was sure MacMillan contributed much to the development of the B.C. forest industry.

"I'm sure his guidance and expertise will be missed by everyone. I'm sure the company will suffer from his loss."

Premier Bill Bennett called MacMillan the father of the integrated forest industry in the province.

At MacMillan Bloedel, J. V. Clyne, retired company chairman who had known MacMillan since the early 1930s, described him a strong and aggressive man, who was also very kind.

He made a great contribution to may charities in B.C. and devoted a great deal of time and interest to forest generally," Clyne said. "He was a great Canadian."

Robert Rogers, president of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., described MacMillan as a highly-respected man.

"There will never be another, H. R.," said Rogers.

John Behne, founder of Pacific Rayonier, which later became Weldwood of Canada Ltd., said MacMillan almost single-handedly made B.C. into a forest giant.

"But MacMillan did more than just develop the natural resources of the province. He put a lot of time and money into developing the cultural resources of B.C. He had a great interest in the painting and culture of the native Indians."

SEVEN SEEK SEAT

Seven candidates, including five who ran unsuccessfully in last November's civic election, will contest the Feb. 28 byelection in the city of Victoria.

They will be trying to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of ex-alderman Sam Bawlf, following his election as MLA.

The seven who had filed papers by Monday's noon deadline for nominations were:

Businessman Henry Bitterman, 705-435 Michigan; library assistant Peter Cruise, 14-1249 Rockland; teacher William McElroy, 215 Linden; appraiser John Hayes, 1-1759 Rockland; solicitor Peter Insley, 327 Masters; civil servant Joseph Richards, 541 Dalton; and seamstress Ann Tarasoff, 902-701 Esquimalt.

Bitterman, McElroy and Richards were among defeated candidates in last year's mayoralty election, while Hayes and Tarasoff were in the aldermanic race.

MULRONEY HITS BACK

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal lawyer Brian Mulroney struck back Monday at critics who say his campaign for the Progressive Conservative leadership is being secretly masterminded by former part president Dalton Camp and lavishly financed by big corporations.

Camp has nothing to do with his campaign and the fund raising has been "clean and above-board," Mulroney told a candidates' forum.

LOS ANGELES — Toronto-born Percy Faith, who turned to composing and arranging music after an accident kept him from becoming a concert pianist, died Monday of cancer at 67.

SASKATOON — Mr. Justice E. N. Hughes is to pass sentence Thursday on David Threinen who Monday pleaded guilty to four counts of murder punishable by life imprisonment.

SAN FRANCISCO — Jurors in the 108-day Zebra murder trial honored one of their own Monday — with a baby shower. Judge Joseph Karesh granted the panel a special two-hour lunch break so it could have a shower for pregnant juror No. 8. The pregnant juror was a bride when the trial began last March 3. Karesh is considering a recess in the trial to give her a chance to have the baby before the start of deliberations.

SAN DIEGO — Judith Exner, who says she had an affair with President Kennedy while maintaining relationships with two mobsters, sued the FBI Monday, demanding the agency give her information on her in its files.

NEW YORK — Joseph Cardinal Suenens, Roman Catholic primate of Belgium and a widely influential leader in church reforms, renewal and Christian unity, today was named recipient of the $80,000 Templeton Foundation Prize for progress in religion.

BELOIT, Wis. — After 52 days in a coma, 22-year-old Judith Steuck broke her long silence with the simple greeting, "Good morning."

ROLLING STONE

BOB DYLAN'S ROLLING THUNDER Revue made its first stop in Middle America Jan. 25, joining an amazing array of talent for the Night of the Hurricane II benefit at the Houston Astrodome. The event, held in support of imprisoned ex-boxer Rubin "Hurrican" Carter — featured over seven hours of music and drew about 40,000 people and a reported $400,000 gross. But it ended amid complaints of bad acoustics and financial extravagance.

Despite the size of the crowd, rumors abounded afterwards that the benefit — suffering from high stadium, hotel and transportation expenses — had actually lost money.

And on the Tuesday after the concert, promoter Clyde Carson indicated he was unable to say how much money Carter's defence committee (Freedom for All Forever) would receive until an audit was made. But he seemed confident that the concert would eventually show a profit.

FOR A GUY WHO'S decided not to join the Rolling Stones (as high placed rumor has it), Ron Wood has been acting real chummy with Mick Jagger and company. Ron stopped in on the Stones in New York, where they were putting the finishing touches on their next album, and then flew down with them to Clearwater, Florida, where the album's art — Wood poses included was shot. (Why Clearwater? Because the Stones' like the sunsets and sunrises there.) More on that album: "I think it's their best album for ages, especially the vocals. Especially the back-up vocals," Wood told one of our correspondents in an earlier interview. Woody, by the way, helped on those back-up vocals, in addition to playing some guitar.

GRACE SLICK ANSWERED the phone and extended a dubious invitation: "You should come over. It's China's birthday and there's a lot of turkeys here," the phone was in the big San Francisco house she moved out of just before New Year's, ending her sever-year relationship with fellow Jefferson Starshipper Paul Kantner. The couple had never married, though they did have a daughter, first named god, then China.

"It's not a John and Yoko trip," Kantner explained on an upstairs extension. "Tell your readers, if they want the whole story, send a postcard to Grunt Records: We're going to have a comic book made up that 'tells all'."

"If you live and work together 24 hours a day for 10 years," Grace said, "it gets unhealthy. The idea was to separate so you don't drive each other crazy."

Neither Paul nor Grace expect their breakup to have any effect on the Starship. Grace: "We have a smooth working relationship." The Airplane survived a similar situation when Grace and then-drummer Spencer Dryden broke up after going steady for some time.

Rehearsals for their next album, meantime, have been interrupted by drummer John Barbata's emergency appendectomy on Jan. 15 and bassist Pete Sears' driving accident.

Sears turned over a truck three times after taking his eyes from the road to search for a cheese sandwich. He was uninjured but shaken up. The sandwich was ruined.

BREAK UP EVERYBODY, PART II: When last we heard from Harold Melvin and his disenchanted Blue Notes, word was that cooler heads would prevail and the group would reunite. At last check, though, heads were still pretty hot: "It's not gonna happen. No way," said Theodore Pendergrass, the ex-Melvin Blue Note, who has taken the other Notes on the road with him. "I guess it's a difference of generations. He's almost 37 and I'm 26. He thinks 1950 and I think 1976."

The big problem now is who owns the name Blue Notes. Since both groups feel they have rights to the name, it looks like the courts might have to decide.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

"Why the public should have to put up with the activities of of you and your friend I don't know," Judge F. S. Green said Monday to an 18-year-old Oak Bay youth who was part of a Jan. 31 disturbance at the Odeon Theatre.

"I don't see why they should," Green said as he set a $75 fine for Dieter William McPherson, 18, of 2190 Fair. "I hope the two of you have learned your lesson. The courts, policemen and the public won't tolerate this sort of thing."

Garith Warren Ballandine, 18, of 1760 Haultain, pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of mischief in the incident while McPherson pleaded guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance by being drunk.

Prosecutor Scott Marshall said the two had been drinking and were being evicted from the theatre by the management when Ballandine ripped an intercom phone from a wall and kicked a glass door, causing a split.

Marshall said both youths used obscene language to theatre employees and police.

Green fined Ballandine $75 as well, adding a six-month term of probation and an order to pay $156 for the damage to the glass and phone before April 30.

"I think loss of temper will be expensive in this case," Green said after Edra Mitchell, 22, of 150 Montreal, pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of mischief.

Marshall said she and a man were arguing at Yates and Douglas early Dec. 31 and Miss Mitchell kicked in the front window of Shoppers' Drug Mart, 1320 Douglas, in a fit of anger.

The five-feet by 12-feet piece of plate glass cost $300 to replace. Green ordered an eight-month term of probation and said Miss Mitchell must pay $300 for the damage before July 31.

Forty hours of community-service work were ordered by Green for Darlene Elizabeth Usipuik, 19, of 950 Empress, who pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of theft of a $14.99 pair of shoes Jan. 28 from The Bay. The work will have to be performed during a six-month term of probation.

Albert Norman Laberge, 18, of 944 Tattersal, chose trial by county court judge on a Saanich charge of possession of MDA Jan. 31 for the purpose of trafficking. Laberge has been unable to raise $350 surety bail and Green set the preliminary hearing for March 10.

In the court section of Judge Blake Allan, a $150 fine was set for Donovan Charles Girard, 24, from the B.C. community of Black Creek, who pleaded guilty Jan. 15 to a Victoria charge of fraud. He bought items worth a total of $482 Jan. 6 and 7 by using another man's credit card which he said he found Dec. 26 while hiking in Cape Scott park.

Penalties Monday for drinking drivers:

Victoria area resident Dragutin Likar, fined $475 after pleading guilty to an Oak Bay charge of driving Jan. 14 while impaired by a prescribed drug.

Theodore Andreas Tandberg, 62, of 1071 Lodge, fined $400 after pleading guilty to a Saanich charge of impaired driving Wednesday.

All three were ordered to take the impaired-driver course.

No Status Change for Epileptics

There will be no immediate change in the law banning victims of epilepsy from obtaining landed immigrant status in Canada, Immigrations Minister Robert Andras has told a 30-year-old Victoria woman seeking the change.

Sufferers from epilepsy awaiting landed immigrant status — perhaps as many as 1,000 across the country — will have to continue to live under year-to-year minister's permits for the time being.

In a letter to Vivienne Anderson, the woman campaigning for a better deal for epileptics, Andras affirmed his intention to make the relevant changes, but only as part of a proposed general overhaul of the Immigration Act.

Ms. Anderson, however, reiterated her contention Monday that deletion of the offending clause — discriminating against "persons who if immigrants are afflicted with epilepsy" — could and should be done at the earliest opportunity.

A Tory MP had earlier indicated the opposition's willingness to give swift passage in the Commons to such an amendment.

Ms. Anderson's fear is that when a new Immigration Act finally comes up for Commons discussion the question of deleting the clause relating to epileptics will be buried amid larger issues.

In the meantime she is continuing her fight to enable her to appeal wording in the act before the Immigration Appeal Board.

Ms. Anderson, who married Vancouver-born librarian Richard Anderson in London, England, in 1973, has waged a lengthy battle with immigration authorities to obtain landed immigrant status.

Music Recital Thursday

Five senior students of Victoria Conservatory of Music will be presented in a recital Thursday at 8 p.m. at Craigdarroch Castle, 1050 Joan Crescent.

Mezzo soprano Karin Roberts and soprano Jane MacKenzie will be joined by instrumentalists Vicky Gray, oboe, Stephanie Soulsby, piano, and Robert Sinclair, clarinet.

The program will include cantata excerpts by J. S. Bach, a group of Brahms lieder, two works by clarinetist Sinclair and numbers by Faure, Purcell, Schutz and Britten.

There is no admission charge but donations may be made to the scholarship-bursary fund.

Nippon Steel Discussions With Socreds

Senior officials of the Japanese firm studying the feasibility of a steel mill in B.C. met for the first time last week with the new Social Credit government.

Nippon Kokan KK began a feasibility study under a joint agreement with the former NDP government and is now in the second stage studying a short list of locations for the mill.

Officials met with Economic Development Minister Don Phillips Friday morning and later had lunch with Premier Bennett and other government people.

The government has agreed the Japanese firm should continue the second phase of its study but no decision has been made as to the future of either the studies or the steel mill itself.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

When an inexperienced player makes a "dumb" mistake in the play of the cards, it is understandable. But when the same type of dumb mistake is made by an experienced player, one asks the question: "How come?" for there is no rational explanation.

Today's deal arose in the National Team-of-Four Championships. Sitting East was one of our nation's top players He made a play that was completely unbelievable—and would have been equally unbelievable even if a dub had been sitting in the East seat.

	◇ J 10 9 8 5 3
	♣ Q 9 6 3
WEST		EAST
♠ K Q		♠ A 5 2
♡ J 8 5 3		♡ Q 9 7 4
◇ 7		◇ A 6 4 2
♣ J 10 8 5 4 2		♣ K 7
	SOUTH
	♠ J 10 8 6 4
	◇ K Q
	♣ A

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	2 ♡	3 ♠	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ◇.

The bidding calls for a bit of comment. Had the game been rubber bridge, East would have passed South's one-spade call, since East had a minimum opening bid. But in duplicate bridge, with scoring being on a relative basis, one learns not to sell out at the one-level, for when one does, a poor score is obtained much more often than not. Hence Easst's reopening take-out double.

West opened his singleton diamond and, as is evident, the four-spade contract is doomed to defeat, since South has to lose a diamond and three trumps. But, as we all know, things sometimes happen, with the result that the impossible become possible.

East won the opening diamond lead with his ace and returned a diamond, West ruffing the trick with his queen. West exited with the jack of clubs, South perforce winning with the ace. The deuce of hearts was then ruffed with the board's three of spades.

Next came the seven of spades and East, inexplicably, put up his ace, telling his partner's king. From here in declarer had smooth sailing, for he was able to enter dummy via the nine of spades, and on the jack and ten of daimonds he discarded his six and ten of hearts. Eventually his jack of trumps picked up East's remaining trump and that was that.

What motivated East to play his ace of spades will never be known, for East isn't talking. And no one in this world is ever going to ask East: "How come you played the ace?"

Help in Choosing Vegetable Seed

Each year, as the interest in growing food in the home garden increases, more families are faced with the problem of making a wise selection of vegetable seeds.

The number of varieties of each vegetable are confusing to the beginner who has never purchased seed, and random selection often results in disappointments. Since time, physical labor, and cash are involved, a little guidance can save on all three.

A seed catalogue is the greatest help a beginner can find. One good catalogue from a reputable seed firm which supplies commercial market gardeners and home gardeners across Canada, will last as a guide for several years. Such a catalogue can be obtained by writing one of these firms and requesting a copy of their latest issue.

You are likely to find 20 listings of peas, 12 of beans, 30 or more of tomatoes, and varying numbers of other popular vegetables. Each variety is suited to some particular soil or weather condition that prevails between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada.

Also there are extra early, early, mid-season and late varieties, which enable us to extend the cropping season, and make sowings in coldframes and cold greenhouses for out-of-season crops.

Most interesting to the home gardener are those varieties recommended only for the home garden. These are varieties never seen on the market because they are not suitable for handling and shipping without being badly damaged. Among these we find the best flavors and most delicate textures.

Varieties recommended for commercial production are coarser in texture and have less flavor, and bred to mature the whole crop in the shortest possible time to reduce harvesting costs. These are not desirable in the home garden where two pickings a week over several weeks are sufficient, unless a full crop is needed for freezing or processing.

The number of days from sowing to full maturity is shown for every variety, the length of time being for average soil and weather conditions. By sowing 45 and 55 day varieties on the same day we obtain continuous cropping for several weeks.

Dwarf varieties are better in the small garden than tall, and better suited to our long rather slow spring periods. The dwarfs produce earlier because they have less growth to make, and cause less shade so that rows can be sown closer together. This means no waste space.

Most seeds, properly stored in a drawer at floor level against an outer wall of the house, are good for three to five years, lettuce to 7 or 8 years, so there is no need to sow the whole packet.

Early varieties, as used for spring sowings, can be sown again in mid-July for use in September and October, and in coldframes or cold greenhouse in September for use until New Year. Thus we can buy larger packets at a saving in cost.

Parsnip and onion seed is only good for one year, although a percentage may germinate the second year. Never buy these in large quantities.

Squash, marrow, pumpkin, and cucumber seed produce the largest crops of fruits when three years old. While the beginner has to start with fresh seed, it is wise to buy an extra packet this year, mark it with the date, and use it three years hence.

When the time comes to sow seeds, remember you are a home gardener, not a farmer. You have no use for an acre of carrots all maturing at one time. You need small quantities of several vegetables two or three times a week, harvested while young and at their best in both texture and flavor.

To obtain this, sow a few seed every 10 to 15 days, not four or five rows on one day, and continue from spring until mid-July. This method prevents gluts and shortages, and lessens chances of damage by pests and diseases because each sowing is quickly used and does not remain in the soil long enough to become badly damaged.

Also, if one sowing suffers from adverse weather, the next soon takes its place.

STICKY PEDAL

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said Monday that it is recalling 19,009 of its 1975-model Chrysler Cordobas and Dodge Charger S.E. models equipped with automatic speed control and 360-cubic-inch, two-barrel engines.

A spokesman for Chrysler Canada Ltd. said 1,809 of the cars were sold in Canada.

Chrysler Corp. said a possible defect in the speed-control throttle assembly might cause the throttle to remain open when the accelerator pedal is released.

Chrysler said the sticking would occur only when the throttle is opened all the way.

The auto maker, which warned motorists to shut off the engine and stop the vehicle should the problem occur, said it has received 12 reports of throttles sticking. The firm said the reports included two cases of cars involved in accidents, but no injuries.

Chrysler said it will inspect and correct, if necessary, the cars at no cost to the owners.

Rape Case Jury Enters Day 2 of Deliberation

The jury in the B.C. Supreme Court trial of Remy Antoine Gatto, 29, of 3272 Shelley, was locked up in a hotel for the night at 11 p.m. after failing to reach a verdict following six hours and 15 minutes deliberation.

Gatto is accused of raping a Saanich woman Sept. 14, 1974, and of breaking and entering with intent to rape.

The jury retired at 3:15 p.m. and deliberated until 6:30 p.m. when it took a dinner break, returning at 8 p.m.

The seven men and five women returned to the closed jury room at the temporary courthouse at the former St. Ann's Academy at 10 a.m. today to resume deliberations.

Mr. Justice E. E. Hinkson directed the late-evening adjournment because he felt the jury's ability to deliberate would not improve with the hour.

Earlier, Crown counsel Louis Lindholm told the jury in summation that it should believe the complainant.

He pointed out that Gatto had changed testimony from an earlier court appearance when he said he didn't remember details of what happened when he crashed through her bedroom window.

He described Gatto's story to the court as "incredible and bizarre," falling through the bedroom window of a single, attractive woman.

Gatoo told the court he had been drinking all evening, went to an apartment to see his sister-in-law, found she wasn't in and then, in walking round the apartment lawn, decided to relieve himself.

Then, he said, he fell into a patio area and while pulling himself out by grasping a bedroom window, fell through the window.

He admitted touching the woman but denied sexual intercourse occurred.

The complainant said she woke to the crash of glass, screamed, and a man jumped on top of her, hit her across the mouth and told her to shut up.

She said Gatto, whom she identified in court as the man who crashed into her bedroom, threatened to kill her if she didn't shut up. Gatto denied making the threat.

She also said Gatto did begin to have sexual intercourse.

Defence counsel Harold Turnham said the breaking and entering charge is "a bit of a red herring" because it must be a deliberate act. It is not a crime, he said, to accidentally fall in someone's window.

Reviewing medical and personal evidence, he said it was "not safe to say beyond a reasonable doubt" that intercourse occurred.

Mr. Justice Hinkson, in charging the jury on the law, said there are three lesser offences the jury could consider in addition to rape — attempted rape, indecent assault, and common assault.

The break and enter with intent charge could be made applicable to the lesser offences except that of common assault.

Gatto's trial began last Thursday.

Controls Seen As Beef Threat

EDMONTON (CP) — Proposed federal standards regulating the amount of bacteria in ground beef threaten to disrupt the distribution of beef, Keith Leckie of Toronto, general manager of the Meat Packers Council of Canada, said Monday.

Leckie, in an interview during the first day of the council's annual meeting, said the standards would force 40 per cent of unfrozen ground beef and 33 per cent of frozen ground beef off the market.

The standards, proposed by the federal health protection branch, say bacteria limits in any sample of unfrozen ground beef could not exceed 50 million per gram.

If accepted, the standards would also prohibit bacteria counts in frozen ground beef from exceeding 10 million per gram.

No ground beef samples would be accepted if they contained salmonella.

Leckie said hiring staff to monitor meat and enforce these standards would cost packing plants millions of dollars.

Dr. Kenneth Pennifold, Edmonton's environmental health officer, said the proposed standards for unfrozen meat were not tough enough.

Pennifold, who is a guest at the meeting, said that the standards should set the maximum bacteria count at 10 million.

Meat packers' opposition to the standards on the ground of high costs is "a lot of bull," Pennifold said.

Masseuses Must Be Trained

CALGARY (CP) — City council Monday gave final approval to its massage bylaw, which allows body rub parlors to remain open around the clock but prohibits outcalls and untrained masseuses.

The bylaw obliges parlor operators to meet city health standards and hire only employees who have passed a recognized course in massage.

Council dropped a proposed 11 p.m. closing time abut two weeks ago when city solicitor Brian Scott told council it might not have the legal power to regulate hours of operation.

Within the next few weeks, the city's legal department will investigate methods of toughening up the bylaw by restricting massage parlors to the downtown area and by asking the province for legislation to restrict operating hours.

UNIONS VETO WORK HALT

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia labor union leaders Monday rejected a proposal that a four-hour work stoppage be held Friday to protest Insurance Corporation of B.C. rate increases.

Jack Munro, western president of the International Woodworkers of America — B.C.'s largest union with 38,000 members, said the union did not support the proposal but would encourage people to participate in a rally scheduled Friday in Victoria.

Alderman Harry Rankin of Vancouver called Sunday for the work stoppage in support of Friday's rally, sponsored by the B.C. Federation of Labor and the Concerned Citizen's Association of B.C.

Munro said the union supports demonstrations against Autoplan 1976 increases doubling the insurance premiums for most B.C. drivers.

He said: "The working people are getting it in the neck and I think the government had better pay attention to what's going on."

Labor Minister Allan Williams said in Victoria it would be "very costly" if British Columbians stage a four-hour work stoppage.

Williams said the stoppage would have serious consequences and would force some people to make decisions "they would rather not have to make."

Meanwhile, other labor leaders joined Munro in rejecting the work stoppage plan.

"It never ceases to amaze me how people like Harry Rankin can fight to the last drop of someone else's blood," said Senator Ed Lawson, the Teamsters Union's Canadian representative.

"It's a stupid idea. If 200,000 workers in B.C. walked off for half a day, that would mean $5 million in wages poured down the drain."

'SHOCKING', SAYS BENNETT

B.C. Jobless Up Again

Times News Services

Unemployment in B.C. rose in January to 93,000, up 5,000 from December and an increase of 7,000 from January last year on a seasonally adjusted basis. Actual figures were not available.

Seasonally adjusted B.C. jobless rate was 8.5% of the labor force compared with 7.9% in December.

A Statistics Canada report issued in Ottawa today showed 800,000 persons actually unemployed across Canada last month. This was an increase of 107,000 from December and 41,000 from January, 1975.

Reacting to the B.C. figures, Premier Bill Bennett said today the situation was "shocking."

B.C. has had a "difficult unemployment statistic" in the last year and a half, he said, adding that the Socreds fought the election campaign on that issue.

The department of economic development is working on projects which it is hoped will provide new employment in B.C. and the government generally hopes to encourage employment, said Bennett.

The figures will probably improve in the summer, he said, but in the long term he hopes the figures will decrease in the next two years.

Statistics Canada figures show that the national unemployment picture improved in terms of the seasonally-adjusted rate — the measure most commonly used by economists to chart economic performance.

Direct comparison with previous years is difficult, however, because today's figures were the first released under the agency's new jobless survey. The new figures are not directly comparable to figures issued under the former survey.

The new survey tends to reduce the over-all unemployment totals, including unemployment among men only. But the jobless total for women is increased under the new survey which includes minor changes in the definition of unemployment and a more comprehensive series of questions.

For example, the January jobless total of 800,000 compares under the new survey with a January, 1975, total of 759,000. However under the old survey the January, 1975, total was reported at 815,000.

On a seasonally-adjusted basis, the jobless rate rose in six provinces, but dropped in Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland.

The British Columbia rate was 8.5 per cent in January, up from 7.9 per cent. Saskatchewan rose to 4.3 per cent from 3.8, Manitoba climbed to 5.1 per cent from 4.9 and Nova Socita rose to 7.9 per cent from 7.7 per cent.

The rate in Ontario dropped to 5.6 per cent in January from 6.5 per cent in December; the Quebec rate dropped to 7.9 per cent from 8.5 per cent.

The Newfoundland rate dropped by 2.3 percentage points, but that province retained the country's highest rate at 11.6 per cent in January.

Alberta retained the lowest rate at 4.1 per cent, up from 3.4 per cent.

YOUNG HARD HIT

OTTAWA (CP) — Of the overall jump of 107,000 in the Canadian unemployment total in January, almost half were aged 15 to 24. The January total in this category was 369,000, up by 50,000 from December.

For men aged 25 and older, the jobless total jumped by 38,000 to 254,000 in January. For women of the same age, the total increased by 21,000 to 178,000. The totals by age and sex do not add precisely because of rounding.

On a seasonally-adjusted basis, the jobless rate for young men aged 15 to 25 rose nine-tenths of one percentage point to 13.4 per cent, but the rate for young women dropped to 10.5 per cent from 12.4 per cent.

For those aged 25 and older, the seasonally-adjusted rate for both men and women dropped from the December level. The men's rate was 3.9 per cent, down from 4.1, while the women's rate was 5.7 per cent, down from 6.7 per cent.

Air Bribe Shock Waves

Times News Services

Shock waves continued to spread around the world today in the wake of further revelations of huge bribes by aircraft manufacturers.

The Dutch government named a three-man independent commission to investigate charges that Prince Bernhard received $1.1 million from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. for help in selling its warplanes.

At the same time, the Dutch representative of the French Dassault Aircraft Corp. went on trial in Amsterdam on charges of trying to bribe members of the Dutch parliament to promote the purchase of French planes.

Lockheed faced similar problems in Japan where a furore over alleged secret payoffs to government officials continued.

About the only good news Lockheed got came from Ottawa, where Treasury Board President Jean Chretien denied there had been any improper conduct in dealings with the company. Defence Minister James Richardson agreed.

But a report today from Tehran says another U.S. aircraft manufacturer, Grumman International Inc., has agreed to pay Iran $28 million that the Iranian government claims Grumman paid improperly to agents on a $2.2 billion contract.

Iran's vice-minister for war, Gen. Hassan Toufanian, said Grumman agreed in writing to the $28 million payment against Iran's order for 80 sophisticated F-14 Tomcat fighter planes. The money is part of $75 million that Iran lent Grumman to bail the company out of financial problems.

Grumman was to pay the $28 million to middlemen as commission to get the very order for airplanes that Iran wanted in the first place. Iran helped Grumman out of its financial problems so the planes it wanted would be manufactured.

In The Netherlands, the national newspaper De Volkskrant quoted parliamentary circles Monday as saying a ruling against Bernhard, consort of Queen Juliana, "could entail the abdication" of the monarch. The three-man team of investigators is expected to take about six weeks to report findings.

The charges against Botterman resulted from the fierce competition last summer between Dassault and the the General Dynamics Corp. of the United States for what was dubbed "the arms deal of the century." In the end, Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Norway chose the American F16 supersonic jet for their air forces over the French Mirage F1 fighter in a deal worth more than $2 billion.

Vice-Defence Minister Takuya Kuba told a news conference Monday night: "My earlier statement was inappropriate as my imagination was incorporated in it."

MISSING CANNON emerged on University of Victoria campus today after UVic students stole it as a prank from Royal Roads Military College over the weekend. Although several contingents from the college scoured the campus for their missing 700-pound cannon they couldn't find it and Monday night in frustration a line of 25 cadet cars toured the ring honking horns. The cannon was placed in front of the Coronet building early today with the note: "Compliments of Ross' Co.'s Raiders". Two college representatives came to claim it back, but they had to abandon their prize briefly to round up more muscle—the cannon was too heavy to lift. (Bill Halkett photo)

$1 Million Pipeline To Water Saanich

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

The Greater Victoria water board today agreed to build a $1 million pipeline extension carrying water to the southern border of Central Saanich, as a mark of "good faith" toward solving the water problems of the Saanich Peninsula.

But the condition stipulated is that the Peninsula municipalities — Central and North Saanich, and Sidney — unite as one water improvement district and arrange to purchase the water in bulk at the boundary.

Saanich Ald Sandy Noel, who framed the motion, said he feels the provincial government may "thrust" solutions on both the water district and the peninsula in the near future, and this was an opportunity for the board to take the iniative.

The pipeline extension would be from the reservoir now under construction at Haliburton Road near Beaver Lake for about two miles north to the Central Saanich border.

Noel said whatever arrangements are made by the northern municipalities to purchase the water the wholesale rate charged will be higher than the rate which the water district charges to its member municipalities. The rates would amortize the capital expenditure involved.

The $1 million cost of the pipeline extension from Haliburton Road would be a heavy initial shock if Central Saanich North Saanich and Sidney had to pay the total cost, he said.

Victoria Mayor Mike Young, who was elected chairman of the water board for 1976, said the question of further financing formulas could be dealt with at a later stage.

In other business, the board approved a $1.9 million operating budget for 1976. After deducting an expected revenueof $758,000 the total amount to be raised by municipalities will be $1.1 million.

Water commissioner Ron Upward said this will necessitate no increase in the present wholesale rate of 18 cents per 1,000 gallons which the district charges Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay.

STOLEN CITY GUNS FOUND IN VANCOUVER

Although 68 weapons taken have been recovered, no arrests have been made by RCMP and Vancouver City police.

The weapons range from a .22 calibre pistol to a powerful .44 magnum.

Meanwhile seven handguns from a private collection in the city were stolen yesterday. Police are continuing their investigation into theft of the weapons, valued at $800, from 350 Berwick St.

Robinson's manager Doug Robinson is in Montreal and was unavailable for comment.

Keep Solitary Report Urges

OTTAWA (CP) — A study group has recommended continued use of solitary confinement for inmates of federal penitentiaries, but not without certain reforms.

The recommendations are contained in a report to Solicitor-General Warren Allmand by a three-member board under Ottawa sociologist James Vantour, which studied practices at 13 prisons across the country.

The report, released Monday, comes after a December ruling of the Federal Court of Canada that use of solitary confinement cells at the British Columbia Penitentiary constitutes cruel and unusual punishment.

Allmand has said changes in the policy toward solitary confinement will be based on the Vantour report.

The report says inmmates are kept separate from the general prison population: to maintain order and discipline; to protect some inmates, such as sexual offenders, from fellow prisoners; and to punish inmates who break prison rules.

The report recommends that separate confinement be maintained for prisoners in all three categories, but with substantial changes.

The report says 139 inmates or 1.6 per cent of the prison population were separated because of the need to retain good order and discipline.

Although the cells are similar to others in the prison and meals are the same, there are no programs for these inmates and boredom and depression are common. The report says solitary prisoners should be allowed access to institution facilities when not in regular use.

The report recommends establishment of a four-member segregation review board in each prison that would review the case of an inmate within five days of the decision to confine him and once every two weeks after that, the report says.

The report also noted that a total of 368 inmates were in protective custody in July, 1975 or 4.25 per cent of the prison population and recommends these prisoners be allowed to associate with one another, just as any other groups in the penitentiary.

It agrees solitary confinement is the only solution in certain discipline cases, but adds that it should only be used where other measures have failed or are impractical.

Amin Recognizes MPLA As Red Sweep Continues

Times News Services

Uganda today recognized the government set up by the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

Diplomatic sources said the announcement by Ugandan President Idi Amin was the most significant political victory the MPLA has achived in its fight for recognition as Angola's legitimate leader.

Angola could now seek membership in the Organization of African Unity under MPLA leadership, Amin said in his statement.

On the warfront, a powerful Soviet-backed army reportedly captured two strategic Atlantic ports in Southern Angola today and outgunned pro-Western troops braced for a stand at their already threatened military headquarters.

Pro-Western forces said they had been promised aid from Europe and Africa to continue the fight against the Soviet-backed forces that scored their greatest triumph of the war Monday.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Belgrade that the Soviet-backed MLPA had captured the ports of Lobito and Benguela, two of the pro-Western forces' last major southern strongholds.

The fall of the pro-western southern capital of Huambo on Monday was the worst setback of the Angolan civil war, but Jorge Sangumba of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola said, "it is neither a surprise nor a deadly wound."

SPEECH MONDAY

Premier Bennett's "state of the province" address is expected to be telecast on television and radio stations throughout B.C. next Monday evening.

According to a tentative schedule, the premier will tape a 15-minute speech earlier Monday afternoon for broadcast on television and radio at 6:30 p.m.

Bennett has been promising a "state of the province" speech since he took office Dec. 22 and has said the focus will be on B.C.'s financial picture.

The government's financial review, being prepared by accountants with Clarkson, Gordon of Vancouver, will be the basis of the report.

Bennett said the financial review is not completed but he expects to have it soon.

Guatemala Gougers Jailed

GUATEMALA CITY — A number of shopkeepers have been jailed for price gouging in the aftermath of Guatemala's earthquake and "there have even been people selling water from public wells," the nation's president Kjell Laugerud said today.

"There are always those base people who take advantage of a's ituation like this to enrich themselves at the expense of less fortuante persons," he added. "There have even been some persons selling water taken from public wells."

Col. Guillermo Echeveria of the national relief committee, said 100 armed troops were sent into four villages Monday to control food distribution.

Another strong earthquake, meanwhile, was reported Monday afternoon in the Pacific Ocean off Mexico. It was not felt in the closest towns on the Mexican coast although if gave Richter Scale readigns of 5.5 to 6.2.

Torture a Way of Life in Chile

GENEVA (UPI) — A special UN committee charged today that Chile has institutionalized torture in its governmental policies, using tactics of torture and sadism that "stagger the imagination."

The charges, appearing in a 67-page report, were based on a year of investigation by a five-member special committee chaired by Ghulam Ali Allana of Pakistan. The report was given to the UN commission on human rights.

"Torture is indeed institutionalized and has become a part of the present government," the report said.

The group said it is prepared to visit Chile for an on-the-spot investigation. Chilean authorities, so far, have refused to allow the committee to enter the country.

"The methods used continue to be characterized by extreme ruthlessness," the report said. "They extend from cold, methodical application of torture as a means of extracting information or of punishing and destroying political opponents to frequent manifestations of barbaric sadism by individual operators.

"In this connection, statements made before the group stagger the imagination."

The report listed in detail such methods of torture as the use of an electrified bed, beatings, dogs, applying shocks to open wounds, hanging people upside down for hours, cutting the body with a razor and burial in sand with only the head free and exposed to the sun.

The group said it has voluminous evidence that Chilean secret service agencies employ "a number of well-trained, professional torturers."

"Among these torturers, the group has been especially informed of the activities of an individual named Oswaldo Romo. A request has been made that he should be brought to trial for crimes against humanity," the report said.

The regime, it said, uses these methods in order to stay in power.

Various persons also continue to "disappear," it said, and Chile owes the international community an answer as to whether these persons are alive or dead.

The report said many Chilean citizens "are unaware of what is going on in their country. Others prefer to remain silent."

TOWN TALK

Really, city aldermen are so unimaginative at times it makes one despair.

Here they are, for instance, worrying quite needlessly over introducing a curbside garbage collection system, because some elderly residents may not be able to manhandle (oops, personhandle) the proposed cans-on-wheels.

Gentlepersons, the answer is quite obvious. All you have to do is fit the things with small gas or battery-powered motors, then give the senior citizens a crash trash-driving course.

We bet some of our sporty oldsters would have a ball. Who knows, it might lead to our own Garbage Grand Prix in Beacon Hill Park?

First it was the wives; now it's the husbands.

Come next election night,
You come beggin' for votes at my front door,

The chorus to be sung at the end of each verse is:

Bennett replied: "Oh yeah . . . I don't sing though.

Post office officials are scratching their heads over apparent discrepancies in the new overseas parcel rates that went into effect in January, especially those for parcels going to Britain and France.

Information officer Buz Sawyer says they're based on international rates and take routing into consideration. Makes sense, so far.

As an example, parcels up to two pounds cost $2.75 to go to France and $1.80 to Britain. As the weight goes up, however, the picture changes until the sender is paying $6.30 to send a parcel to France and $7.30 for the same weight parcel to Britain.

Sawyer can't explain this one. The moral is keep your bundles to Britain small unless you want to be smacked with high postage costs.

Shortly before the Mosses moved in mid-December they discovered their six egg-laying prisoners had flown the coop. They managed to find five foraging in a neighbor's garden. They figured the sixth must have ended up in someone's pot. But no the chicken lives, or so it seems.

For the past four or five weeks it has made several startling appearances much to the amusement of people waiting at the bus stop at the corner.

Recently it's got bolder. According to a Town Talk spy it has started to venture on to the road. It's appearance in the middle of the street the other day brought traffic to a halt as it strutted cockily past.

An elderly man walking on the sidewalk stopped to watch the spectacle. He looked bemused but quizzical no doubt forming in his mind the inevitable question: Why did the chicken cross . . . ?

Church Fights Rec Bar

Recreation and alcohol do not mix, the congregation of Oak Bay United Church has told Oak Bay council.

The 662-member congregation has sent a resolution to council urging that the bar in the municipality's new recreation centre be axed.

The resolution, passed at the congregation's annual meeting, Jan. 31, says that many people find it objectionable to mingle with others who are drinking alcoholic beverages and that those people have as much right to relax in comfort in the community centre as those who are drinking.

The non-drinkers should not have to be embarrassed by being around drinkers, the resolution says, and young people using the centre will have to stand around and "maybe get into mischief or worse" while they wait for their drinking parents.

"Recreation and alcohol lead to opposite ends and are not consistent in a youth recreation centre."

PROVINCE TURNS DEAF EAR

100 Layoffs Face Jubilee

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

Royal Jubilee Hospital, faced with a $1.3 million operating deficit last year and no sign of help from the provincial government, may have to lay off 100 or more employees.

Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director, said today almost all major hospitals in the province are in the same money bind in varying degrees and plan a joint plea to Health Minister Bob McClelland.

He said Jubilee has taken advantage of staff attrition since last fall to trim the payroll "and we're economizing in every area we can think of short of lay-offs."

But unless substantially more money can be made available by the province this year the hospital faces a similar operating deficit, he said.

To avoid that, a staff reduction of 100 or more by attrition or layoffs would be necessary.

Layoffs are "a move of last resort" but the hospital is having to "actively consider it," he said.

Pickles said that in many discussions with provincial officials on the problem, he has been given no reason to be hopeful.

"They simply say the funds are not available to be as generous as they have been in the past."

Jubilee has a current staff of 2,231, including about 400 part-time or casual workers. Operating budget for 1975 was just over $30 million, with about 80 per cent of it being wages.

Contracts with nine unions representing hospital employees end this year and negotiations on all of them are under way.

Pickles said there are two main reasons for last year's operating deficit: improvements in student nurse training which involved hiring more staff for ward work and a difference of opinion with the province over the number of staff required to man the hospital.

In addition there has been inflation affecting the cost of supplies and an ever-increasing public demand for hospital services, he said.

Meanwhile at Victoria General Hospital, it appears last year's operating budget of $17.4 million will be balanced.

John Murray, assistant executive director and comptroller, said today that the current deficit of $241,000 is expected to be covered by the usual year-end adjustments and the hospital should break even on last year's operation.

He said the hospital achieved a balanced budget by not expanding any programs last year and hiring very few staff and then only when clearly justified by the workload. But none of the hospital's programs had to be trimmed either, he said.

New Rule on Student Trips

A new regulation has been adopted by the Greater Victoria school board administration to cover teachers' leave for participation in athletic, cultural and service trips.

Presentation of the regulation follows confusion over financing of teachers' fares and accommodations on an overseas trip organized at Esquimalt Senior Secondary.

An "information item at" Monday's instruction administration committee meeting, the regulation outlines procedure for teachers applying for leave.

Teacher's must submit their requests in writing to assistant superintendent of schools Dr. John Wiens and:

"If financial assistance is being provided from sources other than the school district itself, applicants are to indicate clearly the source and amount of such assistance."

The regulation also ensures that requests for leave "must outline the precise nature of the activity, the dates involved and the benefits, both personal and educational . . . It is expected that teachers requesting leave for a school activity be directly involved with the group of students concerned."

Board chairman Bill Ross explained today the regulation provided to the board for information — is now in effect and can be amended.

There was no discussion at the committee meeting Monday.

Meanwhile, a meeting will be held tonight to resolve concerns about an overseas trip to England for Esquimalt Secondary school students.

Some parents voiced concern when the students planning to go on the trip were asked to "approve or disapprove" of a $10 surcharge to cover the salary of an Oak Bay teacher scheduled to go as a chaperone.

The school board previously had approved the request of Mrs. Morven Morrison for leave from her post at Oak Bay secondary school to accompany the group leaving March 26. But the leave was without pay.

Leave with pay was granted for three Esquimalt secondary teachers to accompany the students as chaperones on the trip, organized by Esquimalt teacher Keith Morrison.

Several students pulled out of the trip, forfeiting a $100 down payment, when the surcharge option was outlined in a letter by Morrison who said he "was not prepared to travel without his wife . . . and we are not in an financial position to suffer such a loss of (her salary.)

Mayor Mike Young today urged all Greater Victoria residents to give generously for the relief for the Guatemalan earthquake victims.

Young told reporters this morning he is concerned that the aftermath of the earthquake is being displaced from the front pages and the public's consciousness because the disaster is so slow to unfold.

He urged all residents to send donations to the Canadian Red Cross for the relief of the victims.

Mrs. Eileen Medley, executive director of the Victoria branch of the Red Cross, who was also at the press conference, received a $50 personal cheque from the mayor.

City Names Delinquents

Legal proceedings to recover unpaid city property taxes continued today following the issue of writs against seven owners on Monday for a total of 10.

Solicitor Jacob de Villiers identified persons and companies to which county court writs were issued today and Monday and said more would follow as efforts to collect from 91 delinquent property-owners intensifies.

City council instructed de Villiers to take action against 128 property-owners with nearly $700,000 owing, but by Friday 37 had responded by paying $179,000.

The solicitor said some individuals had requested more time, and writs against these were being held pending a decision by council whether to grant an extension.

In his inaugural speech last month, Mayor Mike Young expressed concern that unpaid taxes had doubled to nearly $1 million in the past year. Council's instruction to the solicitor followed.

De Villiers said the writs turned over to court officers for service were for:

Aeron Management Ltd., 530-880 Douglas; John Raymond Biggs, auto wrecker, 1020 Topaz; Colin Moses Butts, mechanic, and Clifford Gerald Coad, brake specialist, 1840 Blanshard; Raymond Earl Cranston, veterinarian, 2984 Douglas; Cloverdale Investments Ltd., 20-432 Douglas; Cascade Pacific Financial Corp., 627 Main, Vancouver; Arctic Installations Victoria Ltd., 4537 Northridge;

Parking Ban Cools Bikeway Protests

No action was taken on a suggested bikeway path along one side of the road.

But parking will be banned on the east side between 8 and 10 a.m. and on the west side between 3 and 5 p.m. Monday to Friday.

The ban, which was applauded by residents, will go into effect after council has acted on the committee's recommendation. The next council meeting if Feb. 16.

The proposal was hailed by regional bikeway adviser Derek Wild as a good move by Oak Bay.

He said the bikeway study revealed extremely heavy bicycle population along Henderson as well as many cars per hour during the banned periods, so the prohibition will make the situation safer both for motorists and cyclists.

In the sometimes-boisterous meeting which drew an overflow audience of more than 80, Henderson Road residents again made plain their opposition to construction of a bikepath on the boulevard.

A number of speakers found themselves interrupted by comments or groans.

One man turned in anger on one interrupter and said "who was that swine who had to stick his mouth out while I was speaking. Shut up while I'm talking."

But the Henderson Road residents among the audience responded with applause when committee chairman Ald. Isabel Craig made the no-parking suggestion.

"The parking ban will make it easier for all (bicycles, pedestrians and motor vehicles) to live together," she said.

Insp. Jack Groves of Oak Bay police said the parking ban would give more space to cyclists and motorists.

In response to one comment criticizing bicyclists without lights he said the police are working on the problem.

But, he said, police get "very little co-operation from parents" some of whom say "haven't you got anything better to do" than bring to their attention the lack of lights on their children's bikes.

Ald. Doug Watts said banning parking in rush hours will allow cyclists to "hug the curb more."

Ald. Doug McLelland said conditions on Henderson Road will be improved. He emphasized there will be no special signs or painted lines for bikes, "just improved conditions for present traffic."

During the meeting, Dr. Hugh Evans, who reiterated residents' opposition to displacement of sidewalks for bikeways, said "we would go wholeheartedly" with the parking ban.

At one point, one resident said "the only thing that was catered to in the past is the car." There was applause, in favor of cars.

That was greeted with applause from the bike supporters.

Watts said there were a number of alternatives for accommodating the planned bikeway from downtown to the university. But consideration of them disappeared when the no-parking proposal was made.

Some of the alternatives, he said, were three-foot bike paths on each side of Henderson Road (greeted by "no way, no way" from the audience), a six-foot path on one side, a green line painted on the street parallel to the curb on one side of the street or both, or adding to the sidewalks to, using one side of the street for bikes and the other for pedestrians.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.
Don't allow the reader to speculate.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford bring the desired results do so you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call:
